

Air Pollution Standards Set By Government

Regulations Will
Apply to 1968
Model Automobiles

WASHINGTON (AP) — The government moves closer today to national control of the air polluting materials which spew from cars and light trucks.

Proposed federal standards, to start with 1968 models, are being published in the Federal Register.

Suggested changes can be made during the following 30 days.

Then the Department of Health, Education, and Welfare will make any revisions it deems necessary, and publish the regulations in the Register to take effect immediately.

"With these standards," Welfare Secretary John W. Gardner said, "we will take an important step toward controlling pollution from the nation's greatest single source of air pollution."

Similar Standards

The secretary noted that similar standards already have been adopted in California starting with 1966 vehicles.

But a department statement said air pollution research indicates automotive pollutants contribute to eye and throat irritation and possibly to major respiratory diseases in all parts of the country.

And it said studies also have shown vegetation and property damage attributable to such pollution in 27 states and the District of Columbia.

The federal rules would apply to all gasoline-powered automobiles and light trucks, whether manufactured in or imported into the United States.

They were developed following this year's passage of the clean-air act amendments which authorized regulation of vehicle discharges believed a hazard to health or welfare.

Maximum Rate

Among other things, the proposed standards would set maximum allowable rates for the discharge of two major automotive air pollutants — hydrocarbons and carbon monoxide. Hydrocarbons are a major ingredient in the formation of smog; carbon monoxide is a lethal gas.

Less stringent standards were developed for smaller engines, including the small imported cars, because they discharge smaller volume of pollutants than the larger engines, the department said.

Gardner warned that stiffer controls will be needed before 1980 when motor vehicles will be so numerous as to make the present standards inadequate.

Intensive Bargaining

Powder Workers Sign Tentative Pact

WASHINGTON (AP) — After four days of intensive bargaining, negotiators in a gunpowder plant strike have reached a tentative settlement that the administration hopes will restore some dwindling ammunition supplies for Viet Nam.

The rebuilding of critical gunpowder stocks could resume after the New Year's weekend if the 4,200 strikers at the Olin Mathieson plant in East Alton, Ill., approve the agreement reached here Thursday night.

Bargaining for the month-long strike was switched to Washington Monday at the request of the Federal Mediation Service.

Chief Federal Mediator William E. Simkin said the tentative agreement was communicated to the White House and Pentagon and "everybody in the administration is gratified at this step."

Sole Manufacturer
The Illinois plant is the sole manufacturer of a special gunpowder used in some rifle bullets, tracer bullets and 20mm cannon shells which the government said were running low during the strike.

But Pentagon spokesmen emphasized that, up to now, there has been no ammunition shortage in Viet Nam.

The agreement was initiated by the three unions involved Thursday night.

Members of the striking AFL-CIO International Association of Machinists — representing most of the strikers — rejected four earlier tentative contracts, but Simkin said he expected the latest offer to be ratified.

The three unions have scheduled votes over the holiday weekend. The other two unions are the AFL-CIO International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers and the Western Employees Trade Council, composed of several bargaining units.

Taft-Hartley Act
The administration had indicated it would resort to a Taft-Hartley Act injunction to halt the strike for 80 days if the latest contract offer were rejected.

Ambassadors Widen U.S. Peace Offensive

WASHINGTON (AP) — Special presidential envoys carried America's Viet Nam peace drive today to France's President Charles de Gaulle, the NATO Council and President Tito of Yugoslavia. India's Prime Minister Lal Bahadur Shastri was next on the calling list.

The only open response from the other side was a defiant call from President Ho Chi Minh of North Viet Nam for the Viet Cong to press on for "new and greater victories."

The special envoys were United Nations Ambassador Arthur Goldberg, in Paris for talks with De Gaulle and a report to a hurriedly called session of the Permanent Council of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization, and Ambassador W. Averell Harriman, in Warsaw for his conference with Polish leaders in Warsaw Wednesday, and a well informed source said he would be in New Delhi Saturday to see Shastri.

After a meeting with French Foreign Minister Maurice Couve de Murville preliminary to his call on De Gaulle, Goldberg said his mission could not be described "in terms of hope, optimism or pessimism."

As for the question whether he had learned anything from Couve de Murville about possible changes in the French attitude toward Viet Nam, Goldberg suggested that reporters ask the French.

Goldberg was little more communicative after his meeting of an hour and 20 minutes with De Gaulle.

He said he had told the French leader of "President Johnson's earnest desire to seek an early and honorable settlement of the Vietnamese conflict" and asserted that such settlement can be achieved only "at the conference table without prior conditions."

Goldberg said De Gaulle "of course expressed his own view which I will report to President Johnson."

The envoy carried a message from Johnson to De Gaulle but its content was not disclosed.

Goldberg is flying home tonight.

Harriman's next move was announced by the U.S. Embassy in New Delhi. The embassy said Harriman will stay only a day or two.

India, along with Poland and which Harriman has already visited, and Canada where presidential assistant McGeorge Bundy has been, is a member of the International Control Commission set up in 1954 for Southeast Asia.

Defiant Call
The defiant call from Ho Chi Minh came in a Hanoi broadcast monitored in Tokyo, reporting a message from the North to the Viet Nam National Liberation Front (Viet Cong).

From Moscow came a pledge

by Soviet Premier Alexei N. Kosygin to "continue rendering necessary assistance and support" to North Viet Nam.

The statement was in Kosygin's reply to questions submitted to him in a letter by Kiyoshi Iwamoto, managing editor of Japan's Kyodo News Service.

Kosygin declared full backing for the stand of North Viet Nam and the Viet Cong for settlement of the Viet Nam problem.

Consider Drafting Students

WASHINGTON (AP) — The man-hunting Selective Service agency says it is considering revival of the Korean wartime deferment standards for college students — which made it harder for marginal students to get draft exemptions.

Some 2.2 million students now hold deferments, and are required only to be doing satisfactory work as fulltime students at a properly accredited college or university.

"We're looking at some things that might be done to find less promising students," a Selective Service official said Thursday. "If we need more men... one good place to look is going to be the students."

The Korean War standards were dropped in 1962. Under them, "class standing and performance on a Selective Service qualification test were considered before a ruling on draft eligibility was made."

A spokesman said the increasing draft board demands of the Viet Nam war — now responsible for about 40,000 draftees a month — has led Selective Service Director Lewis B. Hershey to summon state draft chiefs to a series of conferences.

The Sunday Post-Crescent will be published Jan. 2 as usual.

Appleton Man Dies in Plane Crash in Alaska

Roger Schuette,
2 Other Air Force
Officers Are Killed

Capt. Roger Schuette, 32, formerly of Appleton, was one of three Air Force captains killed Thursday when a privately owned single engine plane crashed and burned at Elmendorf Air Force base at Anchorage, Alaska.

Killed with him were Capt. William T. Fouché, 31, and Bryon Powelson, 29, of Pittsburgh, Pa.

Capt. Schuette, son of Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Schuette, Milwaukee, formerly of Appleton, was a graduate of Appleton High School and was a career Air Force man. He had served in Viet Nam before being stationed in Alaska.

Cause Unknown

His wife is the former Shirley Campshire, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edward J. Campshire, 731 E. Wisconsin Ave. They have four children.

Schuette and Fouché were pilots with the 5017th Operations Squadron at Elmendorf and Powelson was the squadron's management control officer.

Cause of the crash was not immediately known.

Youth Sentenced For Auto Deaths

WAUKESHA (AP) — A 19-year-old Waterford youth was sentenced to 60 days in jail Thursday for his involvement in an accident in which two persons were killed.

Douglas Schweitzer, pleaded innocent to driving too fast for conditions when the accident occurred Aug. 29. A charge of negligent homicide was dropped at the request of the district attorney's office.

Circuit Judge William E. Gramling also fined Schweitzer $100 and ordered his driver's license revoked for one year.

Killed in the accident on Highway 24 west of Big Bend, were Mrs. Lorretta Wetzel, 35, Mukwonago, and Robert Kelly, 19, of Burlington, who was with Schweitzer.

Defy Peace Moves

Reds Blast Barracks Of U. S. Enlisted Men, Lose Propaganda Fight

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP) — The Communists blasted a U.S. enlisted men's barracks and aimed a major New Year's offensive at a provincial capital today but took a propaganda setback with the defection of a Polish diplomat.

The Pole, Anatol Slavinsk of Lodz, 25, ran into a Saigon police station this morning and asked for asylum. Other Polish diplomats ran in after him demanding his return but they left sullenly when Vietnamese police turned them down after a shouting match.

Slavinski was assigned to the Polish delegation on the three-nation International Control Commission. The commission is a peacekeeping agency created under the 1954 agreements on Indochina that freed the area from French rule and created North and South Viet Nam. Its other members are India and Canada.

New Show

The Viet Cong gave a new show of their fighting determination on the eighth day of the suspension of U.S. air raids on North Viet Nam and in defense of the intensive American peace maneuvers abroad.

One American was killed, another was missing and 10 Americans and one Vietnamese guard were wounded in the guerrilla raid on the military compound at Dalat, a mountain-resort 145 miles northeast of Saigon. The area had been relatively free of terrorism.

Five guerrillas slipped into Les Ravines billet shortly after midnight and opened fire with small arms and automatic weapons. Before fleeing they exploded two bombs, a military spokesman said.

Bethlehem Ups Steel Price by $5

NEW YORK (AP) — Bethlehem Steel Co., the nation's second largest producer, announced a $5-a-ton price increase today in structural steel shapes and piling.

E. B. Bickford, vice president, said the increase, effective with shipments Saturday, was made because of growing industry acceptance for lightweight, higher-strength steel.

The company also announced a "revision" it said was generally downward in prices of certain other structural sections.

Bethlehem said it will broaden its line of lightweight steel sections, which it said are designed to reduce construction costs. The lightweight sections will be available immediately.

Cardboard Medal?

Tale of Liar's Liar Wins Title for Texan

BURLINGTON (AP) — Texas, noted for the best and biggest things, added another "best" to its list Thursday. A yarn spun by Lester Connally, 59, of McGregor, Texas, earned him the title of "World's Champion Liar."

Connally's tale: "This man was such a big liar that he had to get the neighbors to call his dogs for him."

The contest is sponsored by the internationally famous Burlington Liar's Club. It was Connally's first try at the contest. He is a partner in an antique and second hand store at McGregor.

Connally won a year's possession of the club's diamond-studded medal. Would you believe silver? Would you believe cardboard?

Merlin A. Vergens, Juneau, Wis., wrote, "It has been raining so much the past few weeks that yesterday when I went out into the back yard the night-crawlers were hanging themselves on the clothes-line to dry off."

Another whopper, which received honorable mention, was submitted by Robert O. Stroup, Butte, Mont., "I lived in a log cabin up on Wise River a couple winters ago, and it snowed an awful lot. When the weather started to warm up the icicles reached the ground, and lifted the roof off of my cabin."

Sammy Ferguson of Ocean-side, Calif., wrote, "As I mentioned in an earlier letter, Vista, California, has had a long dry spell. It has been so long since Vista had a rainfall that when a few drops of rain did fall last week they had an inch of dust on them."

Joyous Celebration, Prayer for Peace

World Welcomes New Year

BY JERRY BUCK

The world welcomes the new year tonight with joyous celebration and a prayer for peace. It is a time of merry-makers, resolutions, popping corks — and cannons.

The West Germans will see 1966-in with a bang. They are all set to blow up $15 million worth of fireworks, almost 50 per cent more than last year.

According to German folklore, the bangs and flashes of Sylvester (New Year's Eve) are supposed to frighten off demons and evil spirits.

In the Moslem nations the observance of the new year may be somewhat subdued. It comes this year on the sixth day of Ramadan, the Moslem holy month of fasting.

Kissing, Drinking
The Islamic faithful have been warned that kissing and drinking are forbidden.

Roman Catholics are looking forward to the new year as the start of a special jubilee proclaimed by Pope Paul VI to mark the closing of the Vatican Ecumenical Council.

In New York's Times Square

— a traditional New Year's Eve gathering place — a new $10,000 illuminated digital clock controlled by signals from the U.S. Naval Observatory will time the arrival of 1966.

Along some of the nation's turnpikes, highway patrols prepared big urns of coffee in hope of seeing weary celebrators home safely.

Await Word
And everywhere the world awaited word on President Johnson's efforts to bring the war in Viet Nam to the negotiating table. Johnson has sent diplomatic missions abroad to talk to world leaders.

President and Mrs. Johnson remained at the LBJ Ranch in Texas, where White House press secretary Bill D. Moyers said they have no special plans for the evening.

Chinese Nationalist troops defending the Quemoy islands are under orders not to reply to routine Communist Chinese gunfire for three days starting today.

The Quemoy defense command said the cease-fire is designed "to enable our compa-

triot on the mainland to celebrate the new year and the anniversary Jan. 1 of the founding of the Republic of China in 1912."

Fresh Coffee

Free coffee is being offered to motorists along the Massachusetts, Pennsylvania and New Jersey turnpikes.

And the Burlington, Vt., Free Press is offering for the fifth consecutive year to pay the funeral costs of anyone who plans to drink and drive New Year's Eve. They have to register at the newspaper first.

Traffic patrols across the nation are being beefed up for the holiday weekend.

Taking note of the mild weather forecast, Detroit Director of Traffic William Polkinghorn said:

Roast Lion

Perhaps one way to build up courage to face the new year is to eat some roast lion.

An inn in Plymouth, Mich., is offering roast lion in wine sauce, with soup and dessert included, at $5.80 as part of its new year's menu.

Robert J. Stremich, co-owner of the restaurant, says roast lion tastes like veal.

Clergymen in Detroit issued warnings about the holiday. The Council of Churches said in a statement: "The excesses of celebrations are not only inappropriate, but they often lead to traffic tragedies and the breakdown of families through dissension."

In Portland, Ore., the Bureau of Health cautioned that the New Year holiday with its breakdown of inhibitions is a health hazard.

It said, with a straight face, that many communicable diseases are spread by kissing. It recommended restraint and selectivity.

And in Times Square, among the maddening crowd will be a few pickets protesting people having fun. They are being called out by an irate, but unidentified, New Yorker who feels the city has enough chaos without turning the place over to a bunch of merry-makers.

Jingo Dreams Up His Own Awards for Year

With Tongue-in-Cheek, We Suspect, First Annual VICTOR Winners Named

BY JINGO

With the close of the old year, now is the appropriate time for Jingo to bestow his First Annual VICTORS award. VICTORS is a one-man rating board (Jingo) that evaluates the strong and weak of the television industry and at the end of each year presents a batch of VICTORS.

The most coveted VICTORS goes to the "Television Man of the Year." For this first presentation, Jingo has picked co-winners about both men, CBS president James Aubrey and NBC president Robert Kintner, their respective networks said, their "accomplishments are so many they need not be enumerated." The statements were made shortly after they were fired.

"The Most Consistently Well-Done Variety Show" prize goes to "The Andy Williams Show." The current word is the series may not be renewed.

"The Most Consistently Well-Done Comedy Series" VICTORS is being presented to "Get Smart," which had almost no competition. "Get Smart" is also the winner of "The Best New Show" award.

"The Most Consistently Well-Done Drama Series" award goes to "Slattery's People," already a casualty.

Winner by Default
Other VICTORS:
"The Most Consistently Well-Done Public Affairs Series"—"CBS Reports," winner by default.

"The Most Consistently Well-Done Children's Series"—"The Man from U.N.C.L.E.," which didn't even know it was a children's show.

"Best Special Show"—"My Name Is Barbra," shown twice.

No Choice
"The Most Consistently Well-Done Western Series"—No nominees.

"Best News Show"—"The Huntley-Brinkley Report," close winner over "Walter Cronkite." Main reason for the choice was the use of color, which gave viewer's a chance to see the bags under Chet Huntley's eyes in rich purple tones.

On the other side of the VICTORS coin:

"Worst Drama Series"—"Amos Burke—Secret Agent"

"Worst Children's Series"—"The Man from U.N.C.L.E." again.

Other Worst
"Worst Special Show"—Hallmark Hall of Fame's "Eagle in a Cage," which never approached fulfilling its possibilities.

"Worst Western Series"—"Tie between every western on the air."

"Worst Comedy Series"—"My Mother, the Car" by a fender over 25 other candidates.

Even Goof Award
Two other special VICTORS awards are being presented.

"Worst Golf of the Year" goes to CBS for firing Aubrey, whose 11 ratings has put the network further ahead in the ratings than ever before. The other award, for "Bravery in the Face of Impending Disaster," is being given to ABC, whose ratings are so low that a "new season in the middle of a season" is premiering in January.

Wrapping up the First Annual VICTORS awards is a prize for "Television's Personality of the Year." The winner is Dean Martin, who has had the nerve to tape his shows each week without the benefit, or handicap, depending on how it is looked at, of rehearsals.

Solo, Illya Meet Zombies On 'UNCLE'

BY TV SCOUT

9-10 - Channels 4-5-7 - Solo and Illya say goodbye to 1965 on the soft sands of Miami Beach where they are mixed up with "The Very Important Zombie" on "The Man from U.N.C.L.E." This is a jolly ending laced with voodoo, witch doctors called Mama Lou, and Caribbean villains. The boys' object is to stop Claude Atkins from depositing good guy Ken Renard. There's considerable nonsense here involving dolls you stick pins into and dolls who wear bikinis. (Color)

6-30-7-30 - Channels 2-7-12 - The Wild, Wild West's hero Robert Conrad is out to stop a would-be Napoleon, who favors the fun and games of Marquis de Sade. He is pursued by vamping dogs, a big pussy cat called Gatilla, and ends up on an canopied bed, with moving d ggers. (Repeat)

7-30-8 - Channels 2-7-12 - Hogan's Heroes gets an officer's club, one especially designed to delight and irritate Kommandant Klink. What bothers the German is that the club (built by the Stalag 13 POWs) strongly resembles a ship - one that can float a Britisher on the air and a new secret gunsight on England. (Color)

7-30-8-30 - Channels 4-5 - The Orange Bowl Parade in Miami has Lorne Greene and Janet Blair on the sidelines describing the floats and spotting the celebrities. (Color)

8-8-30 - Channels 2-7-12 - Gomer Pyle - USMC is certain one guy who wouldn't think of turning his draft card. In fact, Gomer Pyle Carter has a tough time to get the marine to take a leave so he can get some peace. (Color)

8-8-30 - Channels 11-9 - There's still another masquerade for Honey West, who has more faces than Lon Chaney ever thought of. She is prettier, of course, and in "A Nice Little Bill to Tap," in which she poses as a teller in a bank hoping to nab a gang of desperados, she also comes close to nabbing a husband, too.

9-10-Channels 2-12 - Trials of O'Brien has a comic gem with a repeat of "What Can Go Wrong?" Roger Moore (who plays The Saint) is perfectly cast as a wealthy, elegant, lashing and benevolent Bostonian planning to take Joanna Barnes home to meet his mother. Peter Falk, who, as O'Brien, is Miss Barnes' ex-husband, is horrified at this prospect. (Repeat)

60 Floats in Rose Parade At Pasadena

PASADENA, Calif. (AP) —

The nationally televised 77th yearly Tournament of Roses on New Year's Day will present: Sixty floats carefully fashioned of innumerable flowers of infinite hue and variety and keyed to the theme "It's a Small World."

Walt Disney riding as grand marshal with Mickey Mouse seated beside him and Donald Duck, Pluto and 24 other Disney cartoon characters walking or riding behind.

Twenty-two bands made up of 2,500 musicians wearing uniforms of many colors and including such diverse aggregations as the Tenri City, Japan, High School Band and the Victoria Beefeater Band from British Columbia.

Beauties, they'll include London's Lesley Langley, 21, who recently won the Miss World title in her home city; America's Junior Miss, Patricia Gaucher, 18, St. Joseph, Mich., and her four attendants from the four corner states of the nation.

Another among many will be the tournament's own queen, Carole Cota, 19, 5-foot-6½, brown-haired, green-eyed sophomore at Pasadena City College.

Hepatitis Disease of Liver, Common Ailment

BY JOSEPH G. MOLNER, M.D.

Dear Dr. Molner: I have recently had hepatitis and would appreciate knowing what it is in lay terms. I have had so many explanations that I don't know what to believe.

My children all had gamma globulin shots and my doctor said the children would not get the disease, but other people say they can get a mild case of it.—Mrs. G.L.C.

Hepatitis is a disease of the liver. It comes from the Greek word hepaticus, or the Latin word Hepaticus.

Put the "itis" on the end, and it means inflammation of the liver. A particular type of virus (or rather, more than one type) gets into the body and it has a preference for attacking the liver instead of some other part of us. Germs are like that.

Since the liver performs several important functions, among them the production of bile, the destruction of red blood cells that have passed their stage of usefulness to us, and the storage of glycogen (or "blood sugar") in a form which can be readily released into the bloodstream when needed, you can see why we suffer in various ways if the liver "gets sick."

I wouldn't say we know all about hepatitis. We don't. But we know a lot about it, and one thing is that hepatitis is transmitted in more than one way. Polluted water, virus-infected foods, and probably personal contact are some ways. Like a somewhat different type of the virus can enter through

Let's EXPLORE YOUR MIND

By Sylvanus M. Duvall, Ph.D. and Evelyn M. Duvall, Ph.D.

Good, in that love is essential in a satisfying relationship. Bad, in that so few young people know the meaning of love, or can tell when they are really in love.

The head of one of America's large family agencies says, "This motivation, fostered by our mass magazines, our movies, our television, our advertising, is not love. It should be more aptly interpreted as eroticism, whether it is intentionally designed to be or not." Young people need both sex education and love education to be prepared for marriage. Prove this to your further satisfaction by reading the mind-opening booklet, "Facing Facts of Married Life." It's yours for 20 cents and a stamped, return envelope sent to this column, in care of The Post-Crescent, Appleton, Wis. 54910.

Is it good for a school child to skip a grade?

Yes—No—

Yes, although it does have some disadvantages. If he skips he may be with children who are socially more advanced, and therefore he's at a disadvantage. On the other hand, if he is smart enough to go ahead, staying in the same grade may waste his time. Even more serious, he may become bored with work that's too easy for him, and get into mischief. Children who were failing in a lower grade have been known to succeed when promoted to work that really challenged them.

Commandant In Berlin Is 'Army Brat'

Gen. John Franklin Joins in Exercises, Acts as Diplomat

By HUBERT J. ERB

BERLIN (AP) — The U.S. commandant in Communist-surrounded Berlin is an "Army brat" who went to West Point, then fought against the Japanese on Guadalcanal and against the Red Chinese in Korea.

Maj. Gen. John F. Franklin Jr. will be 55 next Tuesday. He walks two miles from his home to his headquarters every chance he gets. In field exercises by the U.S. Army's 6,000-man Berlin brigade, he sometimes can be found moving stealthily through the woods with an infantry assault platoon.

At Ft. Bragg, N.C. in 1951, Franklin found himself commanding an armored battalion in a paratroop division, the 82nd Airborne. The paratroopers resented his nonjumpy tankers. He led his 700 tankers through jump school, qualifying them to wear the parachutist's jump wings.

"At long last," Franklin recalls, "they accepted — and respected us."

Even Politician
In his present assignment, Franklin is a soldier-diplomat, even a politician.

"My job is to maintain the position of our government in Berlin, militarily and politically in all its rights and practices which have been earned as the result of World War II, without causing or provoking harassments," he says.

Past "harassments" in Berlin have included the Soviet blockade of 1948-49, the dividing wall the Communists built in August 1961 and numerous other incidents of border, highway, river, canal, or air corridor disturbances.

Most of the training of the U.S. Berlin brigade is left to its commander, Big Gen John J. Hay, while Franklin concentrates on essentially nonmilitary problems. These involve the city's occupied status 20 years after the war — the special relationship of West Berlin to West Germany, what to do about incidents along the city's borders involving refugees to West Berlin, and provision for the maintenance of public order in West Berlin.

Franklin and his French and British counterparts work with West Berlin officials in a coordinated effort but West Berlin's 2.2 million people look primarily to the United States for protection.

Franklin says their attitude is "one of complete confidence that the United States will stand up to its commitments. This is a result of the stand we took on Cuba, the position of both Presidents Kennedy and Johnson on Berlin, and the position we are taking in Viet Nam."

The U.S. commandant functions as a deputy to the American ambassador to West Germany, George C. McGhee. Franklin's own deputy is a career diplomat from the State Department, John A. Calhoun.

Franklin was born in Manila while his father was a colonel. His grandfathers fought for the Union in the Civil War.

Over 200 Murders Recorded in England
LONDON (AP) — The number of murders in Britain during 1965 is expected to exceed 200 — the highest figure since records were kept. This has been an extremely violent Christmas season in Britain, with a dozen murders in eight days — four of them in London.

Abolition of the hanging penalty is blamed by some critics for the increase, but others attribute the rise mainly to an over-all increase in crimes of violence.

Make a Small Croquet Set That You Play on Your Table

BY CAPPY DICK

Miniature croquet is fun to play on a table or rug and you can make the whole, tiny outfit yourself from odds and ends.

Small wood beads are used with a needle, then press a toothpick into the opening.

The arches are made from short pieces of wire. Bend each into an arch large enough for a bead to pass through and form a flat loop at each end so the arch will stand on the table as in Figure 2. Nine arches are needed, to be arranged as shown in Figure 1. For the posts at the ends of the court use pieces of wax crayon or empty thread spools.

Give each player a mallet and a bead. The players take turns, starting at the post marked "A" in Figure 1. Each must strike his bead through the arches in 1-2-3 order as marked by the dotted lines show the course to be followed in going to the post marked "7" and back to post "A". The boy in Figure 3 is showing how it is done.

Each time a player sends his bead through an arch or hits a post in the proper order he gets another turn. The first player to finish is the winner.

Use a toothpick mallet.

for the croquet balls, a different color for each player. The arches are made of wire and the mallets are simply pencil erasers stuck on toothpicks. Remove the eraser from the top of a pencil, stick a hole into it

Not since the 1962-3 season finale had an Appleton High School basketball team managed just 35 points in 32 minutes of inter-scholastic competition, but Thursday eve in the AHS gym, the Terrors duplicated the "feat."

The elder of the 35-point performances was purely intentional however as the Dick Emanuel-coached Terrors sought to upset Oshkosh (with slowdown, ball-control tactics) in a WIAA tournament game. Oshkosh won out, but by a slim 39-35 margin, after notching 67-64 and 82-65 triumphs earlier in the season.

But last night, with neither team employing slowdown tactics, Manitowoc escaped with a 44-35 Fox River Valley Conference win over the Terrors before slightly bewildered on-lookers.

To say the Manitowoc and Appleton offenses were poor would be a gross understatement. The Terrors meshed just 14 of 58 field goal attempts for a paltry 24.1 percentage, while the ships recorded a 34.9 percentage on 15 of 43.

Loose Ball 17 Times

Numerous turnovers on the part of both clubs also took its toll. The Terrors lost the ball without managing a shot on 17 occasions, while the Ships yielded possession (without a fight) 22 times. All turnovers were the result of bad passes or traveling violations.

A slightly befuddled Emanuel had this to say, "Our defense (zone) kept us in the ball game, but we simply couldn't hit the bucket. We could have pulled it out as late as the 3-minute mark in the last quarter with average shooting, but it was just one of those nights."

It definitely was a bad, (terribly) bad night.

The victory boosted Manitowoc into sole possession of third place in the FRVC race, while AHS dropped a full-game back of the Ships with a 4-3 record.

Winter Opens Scoring

With 35 seconds of playing time elapsed, AHS' Steve Winter swished a 25-foot jumper for a 2-0 lead, but Manty came back with six straight points and the Terrors were never to lead the way again. Five straight points by AHS' Dennis Vaubel knotted the count at 13 with 1:11 to play in the opening period, but Manty's Bob Zigmund tipped in an errant Steve Check shot for a 15-13 lead at period's end.

A "blistering" second period saw both teams combine for a grand total of 12 points. Manty set the "pace" with seven to carry a 22-18 lead into the second half.

Vaubel Closes Gap

Vaubel's free throw midway through the third stanza closed the gap to 26-23, but MHS rolled up five straight points before the Terrors found the range from the charity line.

A brace of gift shots by Manty's Bob Rosinsky with 5:29 remaining in the game gave the Ships a 37-25 advantage, the largest margin of the night. Three Pat Garvey field goals and a Manty free throw cut the deficit to 38-31 and George Hoffman swished a jumper from 20 feet to boost AHS within five points of the lead, with three minutes to play.

Manitowoc, stalling through much of the final period, banked on free throws to protect its pad and Rosinsky coined five in that span. Bob Zigmund added a pair. AHS, meanwhile, never found the range and left on the short side of the 44-35 final accounting.

Garvey's 12 markers led the Terrors, while Zigmund and Rosinsky netted 17 and 12, respectively for Manty.

Long Range Forecast Sees Temperatures in Mid-20s for Title Game

Odds makers Rate Packers as Slim Favorites Sunday

GREEN BAY, Wis. (AP) — The long range weather forecast for Packerland calls for a little rain and possibly a little snow for the rest of the week, leading up to a cloudy Sunday with the thermometer in the mid 20s and perhaps a light dusting of snow for the big game.

In other words, get ready for anything. Green Bay has been working all week on a damp practice field with soggy turf over a frozen base. It is something like lemon chiffon pie with a cement crust.

A capacity crowd of 50,852 is assured for the National Football League championship contest between the Packers and the Cleveland Browns at 2:10 p.m., EST Sunday at Lambeau Stadium.

The game will be seen and heard on CBS radio and television, with Green Bay blacked out on TV.

Not Been Running

Because of the slippery field, Coach Vince Lombardi has had to be careful with his limping warriors, especially Jim Taylor. The Packer fullback pulled a groin muscle recently and is trying to nurse it back into shape. As a result he has not been running full speed on the soupy field.

Don't get the idea that the game will be played in these conditions. Lambeau Stadium rests cozily under a layer of hay plus a tarp. It will be playable and surprisingly good, depending upon the weather when they roll the tarp back Sunday morning and remove the hay.

With about $7,000 at stake for every winning share and $4,600 for each loser, everybody expects another hard-hitting game like last Sunday's Baltimore Green Bay battle. In case of a tie they will play sudden death overtime once again.

Cleveland is due Friday night and will bed down in a motel in Appleton 25 miles away. Coach Blanton Collier plans to herd the Browns into town for a brief workout Saturday morning following Green Bay's final limbering up session.

Slim Favorite

If it is true that the odds makers have made the Packers a slim 1 1/2 point favorites they must be counting on the Green Bay defense. The Packers gave

Vikes' Torrid Shooting Tips Knights for Tourney Title

BY JOHN L. PAUSTIAN
Post-Crescent Sports Editor

Today's basketball quiz: Can a team be outscored, 19-0, in the one segment of a game and still win?

The answer is "Yes" — providing that team can shoot field goals at a 64.5 per cent accuracy rate during a second-half comeback.

This is no hypothetical case. The Lawrence University quintet experienced this rare combination of deep depression and exhilarating prosperity in defeating St. Norbert College, 89-82, for the championship of the Lawrence Holiday Tournament Thursday night.

In dethroning the 1964 tourney champions, the Vikes propelled 20 of 31 second-half shots through the hoop to erase a 43-36 deficit. The Lawrence cannonaders, who amassed 195 points in their two tourney wins, squared their season record at 3-3 with the 53-point second-half onslaught. The Knights are now 3-6.

Trail by 11

After the first 12 1/2 minutes of play, the Vikings trailed by 11 points. One of the worst droughts in Lawrence history had seen the Vikes go scoreless for 6 1/2 minutes while St. Norbert turned a 17-9 deficit into a 28-17 lead.

Lawrence rallied mildly to cut four points off its disadvantage by halftime, but the Vikes continued to have trouble with an oft-applied St. Norbert press. And, Lawrence's loose zone defense continued to invite favorable shots by Galen DeNamur, Tom Rankin, John Zelhen and Ron Braul.

In the second half, the Vikes tightened their zone, obtained better rebounding position and zeroed in on the basket. Leading the surge was Dick Schultz, a dark-haired whirlwind, whose story was probably the most remarkable of an extraordinary game.

Schultz, who scored 28 points on the first night of the tourney, failed in five first-half field attempts last night and coined just two free throws in that 20-minute span. After intermission

Spartans and UCLA Greet Sunshine

Michigan State Rated 1 1/2-Point Favorite Saturday

PASADENA, Calif. (AP) — Rival football teams, Michigan State and UCLA, were rested and ready to go in their Rose Bowl showdown on New Year's Day.

Both the Spartan and Bruin camps were cheered by warm sunshine Thursday following a pelting rain the day before. The Rose Bowl turf was reported in excellent shape for the climactic contest and the weather was expected to be brisk.

"A dry field won't bother us at all," commented Bruin Coach Tommy Prothro, who has warned he will order a lot of passing. "Everybody on our outfit is O. K. and ready to go."

"I'm not conceding that they are a better passing team than we are," chimed in MSU Coach Duffy Daugherty. "If they stop our running game, we might pass more than they do."

Michigan State was a 1 1/2-point favorite to continue unbeaten, untied and retain the Associated Press No. 1 spot in the national collegiate ratings.

The UCLA team has retired to a downtown hotel and won't leave it before game time, except for a short 35-minute workout today, Prothro said.

Garrett Won't Join Rams, Reeves Says

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Mike Garrett, University of Southern California star halfback, apparently will go to Kansas City of the American Football league, it was disclosed here Thursday.

Announcement of the move was made by owner Dan Reeves of the Los Angeles Rams.

The National Football League team president struck a sad note as he said:

"We have learned tonight that Mike Garrett will not be with the Rams. We are sorry and we wish him well.

"It was not possible for us to sign Garrett and retain our sense of proportion. Specifically, I refer to our efforts to be as fair as possible to all those within the Ram organization."

Anderson Reported Ready to Sign With Green Bay

Texas Tech Halfback to Receive Estimated $600,000 for Signature

By WILL GRIMSLEY
JACKSONVILLE, Fla. (AP) — Donny Anderson, Texas Tech's two-time All-America backfield star, will sign a contract with the Green Bay Packers Friday for around $600,000, making him the highest paid rookie ever in professional football. The Associated Press learned Thursday night.

Anderson refused to make a commitment but a close friend and advisor said the 215-pound halfback was leaning toward the National Football League team over the rival Houston Oilers of the American Football League, earlier reported ready to cough up $800,000.

Anderson's attorney, H. J. (Doc) Blanchard of Lubbock, Tex., said the athlete would make a decision after Friday's Gator Bowl game against Georgia Tech.

Formal signing will be held approximately two hours later at a Jacksonville hotel. At that time, Blanchard said, the two budding teams had been asked to have representatives and checkbooks ready.

Blanchard Unsure

"I honestly do not know which team Donny will pick, myself," Blanchard said. "I am merely drawing up contracts and studying the various financial angles. It will be up to him to make the decision."

He did say, however, that the over-all financial package would be less than the $800,000 reportedly offered by Bud Adams, owner of the Oilers, but still would be enough to give Anderson the biggest football contract ever signed.

It was learned unofficially that the terms would total around $600,000, with a three year no-cut clause, a fat bonus

Marinette Edges Neenah in Double-Overtime Duel, 90-89

Erase 16-Point Deficit; Aubry's Only Field Goal Wins Game

BY GEORGE MANCOSKY
Post-Crescent Staff Writer

NEENAH — Marinette High School nipped Neenah, 90-89, in a double overtime here Thursday night in a basketball contest which could have been won (or lost) several times by either team before the buzzer sounded for the last time.

And oddly enough, although his team scored 90 points, the winning basket tossed in by Bob Aubry with 13 seconds left in the second overtime constituted his only points of the game.

The Rockets apparently were gliding to their fourth straight victory in a manner which had the audience almost yawning. For example, they were on top, 33-17, at one juncture in the second period, 42-33, at halftime, 51-35, a couple of minutes deep into the third period and by six points with only 50 seconds left in the fourth stanza.

However, the Marines didn't panic, kept plugging away and moved back into the game at 60-57 with four seconds left in the third frame. Gary Losse's long shot with one second left gave the Rockets a 62-57 edge going into the fourth 8-minute session.

6-Point Advantage

Neenah had almost complete control in the fourth canto with 3- to 7-point leads and led, 83-77, with 50 seconds remaining. Then the fireworks began, bringing the spectators back to life.

Bob Rauscher's free throw and two by Clark "Buzz" Boren (who wound up with 36 points) cut the score to 83-80 with 30 seconds left. Losse missed the first shot of a bonus try at the 23-second mark and Rauscher's long jump shot with 15 seconds left narrowed the spread to 83-82.

Neenah again lost a chance to sail away the verdict when Jim Fetters missed a free throw at the nine second mark. Marinette rebounded, took time out and Boren put his team ahead with a long jump shot at the 3-second mark, apparently giving his team the win.

Losse Ties Score

However, the Rockets took time out with one second showing on the clock. On the throw-in, Marinette's Steve Wender fouled Losse and with time run out, Losse converted the lying free throw but failed on the bonus, sending the game into overtime.

Losse lallied on a fast break off the opening tipoff but Paul Nast tied the score at 86-all with a long shot. Marinette then held the ball for almost two minutes but didn't score again, setting up the next overtime.

Losse opened the second extra period with a free throw but Don Peterson's two with 1:14 left put Marinette in front, 88-87. The Rockets' Mike Malone fouled on a gifter with 49 seconds left and the Marines rebounded but immediately lost the ball on a violation.

With just 23 seconds left, Fetters' long jumper gave the Rockets a 90-88 lead but Twin Citians an 89-88 lead but 11 seconds later Aubry found the range, giving the Marines the 1-point edge. Neenah took time out with 10 seconds left but failed to get on the board again as time ran out during a melee under its basket.

The Rockets lost four players on fouls. Larry Handler went out with 5:50 left in the fourth period, Jim Koepke left with 30 seconds remaining in the same quarter, and Pete Kuchl and Dan Jankowski were excused in the second overtime.

Marinette's Don Kloida fouled out with 6:55 left in the third period and Wender went out on his foul of Losse which set up the tying fourth period point.

Boren came within four points of the gym record with his 12 baskets and a dozen free throws in 16 tries. Rauscher, who didn't start, added 16 points, all after halftime. Peterson and Nast each had 12 tallies.

Neenah also had four boys in the twin figures, led by Losse's 24. Jankowski hooped 19, including 13 in the fourth frame, Handler 17 and Koepke 15.

Marinette — (15 18 24 27 24—90) Boren 12 12 4; Nast 6 0 4; Peterson 4 4 0; Kloida 2 1 5; Aubry 1 0 1; Wender 3 1 5; Rauscher 4 8 3. Totals—32 26 22.

Neenah — (21 21 20 22 23—89)—Koepke 5 5 5; Handler 6 5 5; Semeslad 1 2 0; Neubauer 2 0 1; Losse 10 4; Jankowski 7 11 seconds later Aubry found the range, giving the Marines the 1-point edge. Neenah took

Dayton, Temple, Iowa Wiped From List of Unbeatens

Eighth-Ranked St. Joseph Wins Quaker City Tournament

By HAL BOCK

Associated Press Sports Writer

The old year has just about been wiped out and so has the list of major college basketball teams.

The unblemished list was cut in half Thursday night with Dayton, Temple and fourth-ranked Iowa the latest casualties.

Only three teams, Texas Western, Bradley and Kentucky, still have perfect records as the colleges turn into the new year and begin concentrating on conference play.

Dayton was the stubbornest of the trio that went down, losing 77-75 to Maryland in the finals of the Sugar Bowl Tournament at New Orleans, La., after winning nine straight.

Henry Finkel, Dayton's 6-foot-11 center, poured in a record 44 points for the Flyers before fouling out with six seconds to play. Neil Brayton led Maryland with 19 as four Terps reached double figures.

97-65 Rout

Eighth-ranked St. Joseph's burst the Temple bubble with a 97-65 rout that wrapped up the Quaker City Tournament crown at Philadelphia.

The Hawks, who had dropped two games on the road last week, turned on a devastating fast break that opened a 20-point halftime bulge. Matt Guokas led St. Joe's with 25 as Temple's 10-game string ended.

Texas Western stretched its string to 10 games while ending Iowa's at eight. The unranked Miners ran up a 40-19 halftime lead after blanking the Hawks from the field for the first 10 minutes. The 88-88 victory, paced by Nevil Shed's 17 points, clinched the Sun Carnival Tournament for host Texas Western.

In New York, Providence's Jimmy Walker scored a record 50 points as the 10th-ranked Friars downed Boston College 91-68 for the Holiday Festival title.

Oregon State won the Far West Classic for the 10th straight year at Portland, beating Stanford 62-46 in the final after Michigan All-America Cazie Russell had set a three-game record with 91 points. Russell threw a scare into the seventh-ranked Wolverines when he fell heavily as Michigan gained fourth place with a 93-79 victory over Washington State.

Turns on Stall

Host Oklahoma City turned on a stall and captured the All College Tournament, beating Virginia Tech 99-90. Defending national champion UCLA took the Los Angeles Classic 94-76 over cross-town rival Southern California.

In other tournaments, Clemson took the Poinsettia Classic at Greenville, S.C., downing Manhattan 77-67. Penn State's zone defense beat host Florida 54-52 in the Gator Bowl tourney and Kansas won the Big Eight Tournament 71-61 over Nebraska at Kansas City, Mo.

The only other ranked teams that saw action were No. 2 Vanderbilt and No. 9 Minnesota, and both bounced back from upset losses with victories.

The Commodores took third place in the Los Angeles Classic with a 94-72 victory over Purdue behind Keith Thomas' 30 points. Minnesota beat LaSalle 92-87 for third place in the Quaker City tourney.

Montgomery poured in 25 points to lead the Weyauwega High School basketball team to a 56-48 non-conference victory over New London here Thursday night.

Montgomery's basket late in the first half gave Weyauwega a 24-22 lead at intermission. The game was tied seven times in the opening 16 minutes of action, but the Jim Otte-coached Indians were never headed in the second half.

Greg Hildebrand contributed

11 points to the Wega cause. Bruce Feurig and Jerry Kent set the pace for the Bulldogs with 17 and 12 points, respectively.

NEW LONDON — (12 10 17 19-48) Reickman 3 3 1; Linke 4 1 5; Learman 3 2 2; Feurig 8 1 2; Yaeger 0 0 5; Stern 0 0 1; Kent 4 4 0; Bassewitz 0 0 1. Totals—19 10 17.

WEYAUWEGA — (10 14 20 56)—Warnke 3 2 2; Lankford 1 2 2; Raisler 3 2 2; Hildebrand 5 1 1; Montgomery 9 7 2; Nolan 0 0 2; Rohde 0 0 2. Totals—21 14 20.

Holds Scoring Record

Groza in Ninth Title Game

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP) — If Sunday's National Football League championship game at Green Bay is decided by a toe, the Browns think Lou Groza, the old man of the NFL, has the toe that can do it.

It was a field goal that won the Western Conference playoff between Green Bay and the Baltimore Colts, and the Packers are favored to win the big one by the same margin.

But if the place kickers play as important a part Sunday as they did in the Packers-Colts tilt, the Browns have the best in the business.

It was Groza's boot in the final 28 seconds that gave the Browns their first NFL title in 1950, and at 41 The Toe still is splitting the uprisings from near the midfield stripe.

Sunday he will be going into his ninth NFL championship game — more than any other player. He already has set a title game scoring record that is likely to be on the books for a long time.

In eight contests, Groza has scored 49 points on eight field goals and 25 extra points. A distant second is Green Bay's Paul Hornung, who scored 19 points against the New York Giants in 1961 with a touchdown, three field goals and four extra points.

Groza's 52-yard field goal in the 1951 game is the longest ever kicked in a title game.

He is the leading scorer in the NFL, with 1,195 points in 15 campaigns. The only member still remaining from the original Browns that opened in the All-American Conference in 1946, his grand total for 19 seasons comes to 1,361 points.

Groza may be the oldest man in the NFL, but he still likes contact. He was relieved of his duties as an offensive tackle a couple of years ago, but on kick-offs Groza gets downfield fast and often is in on the tackle.

The Packers also have their Toe. Don Chandler, who was acquired last spring from the New York Giants, has booted 19 field goals in 28 attempts for Green Bay, including one from 49 yards out.

The 31-year-old Chandler broke a 10-10 deadlock against Baltimore in the playoff game Sunday with a 25-yard boot in the sudden-death overtime period, giving the Packers a 13-10 victory.

Concentrate on Defense

Ryan Returns to Drills; Browns' John Morrow Injures Ribs in Practice

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP) — The defending champion Cleveland Browns will try to win a second straight National Football League championship when they meet the Green Bay Packers Sunday at Green Bay, Wis., and they mean business, even in practice.

Cleveland center John Morrow brought proof at Thursday's practice session that the Browns' defensive team is working hard in preparation for the game.

Morrow was hit when he attempted to block as the club concentrated on defense, and he came out of the encounter with bruised ribs. Dr. Vic Ippolito, the team's physician, said X-rays showed there was no injury and that Morrow shouldn't be hampered in the championship game.

Kids About Pains

Quarterback Frank Ryan returned to the practice field and was feeling well enough to kid about the abdominal pains that kept him out of action Wednesday.

"I started to feel much better when I read how well Nino (Quarterback Jim Ninowski) was throwing," Ryan quipped.

Ryan alternated with Ninowski in the passing as members of the offense did their best to give a good picture of the Green Bay offense the Browns' defense will encounter Sunday.

Green Bay doesn't have the running attack of other title years and has rolled up only 1,488 yards on the ground, 10th in the NFL. The league leading Browns have totaled 2,331 yards, with Fullback Jim Brown having gained 56 yards more rushing than all the Packer runners.

The Packers appear to have the defensive edge, permitting the league low of 224 points during the season.

The Browns hold their last workout here this afternoon. They leave for Green Bay tonight and will have a final tune-up drill there Saturday.

Various fringe benefits after he is through playing football.

Previously, Joe Namath's $400,000 contract with the New York Jets of the AFL was the largest ever signed by a graduating collegian.

A tip-off on the way the decision may go was seen in the fact that the Oilers have not had a representative present here this week while Green Bay has had its director of personnel, Pat Peppier, on the scene.

Peppier said, "We picked Anderson a year ago as our first draft choice. Vince Lombardi really wants him, but we have not talked with him out of deference to his bowl eligibility and he has made no commitment to us."

Blanchard said he had been in contact with Adams most of the day by telephone. The Houston owner said he did not intend to come to Jacksonville but would send a lawyer, Ernie Hurst.

Alabama Favored in Orange Bowl Contest

By WIL GRIMSLEY

Associated Press Sports Writer MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — Cat-like agility and the pin-point passing of quarterback Steve Sloan make Alabama a slight favorite over massive, hard-running Nebraska Saturday night in the 32nd annual Orange Bowl football game.

It figures to be a high-scoring struggle, matching Sloan and his battery of ace receivers with a line-pounding backfield quartet of Fred Duda, Ron Kirkland, Harry Wilson and Frank Solich, who made Nebraska the best rushing team in the country.

The kickoff is at 8 p.m. EST. The game will be televised nationally by NBC.

"I figure it may take four touchdowns to win this game," Carl Selmar, Alabama's offensive line coach, said Thursday. "I believe we'll win it."

Bob Devaney, Nebraska's head coach, declined to hazard a guess and he had company in time, Schultz burned the cords on 10 of 11 shots in one of the most dazzling shooting exhibitions a Lawrentian has produced. The Milwaukee junior, who scored on long shots, medium shots and irresistible drives, finished with 23 points against the Knights and 51 for the tournament's top total.

Last night, Schultz (with 10 goals in 16 shots, overall yielded honors to teammate Tom Steinmetz, with 24 points. Steinmetz, who rifled in five baskets each half (in a total of 19 shots), was also the Vikes' best rebounder. Sophomore Steve Simon (with eight of 13 from the floor) matched Schultz' total of 23 points.

Second Straight

It was the second straight night that the Clyde-Rusk coached Vikes came up with a trio of 20-plus point scorers. Sophomore Brian Bock added 13 points to the Vike cause last night.

St. Norbert also produced four double-figure scorers, with hard-working DeNamur's 20 points leading the way. Appleton's Tom Rankin, showing amazing poise and savvy for a freshman, hit on seven of 12 floor shots and finished with 17 points. John Zeihen added 14 points, and court-wise Ron Braut hit 10.

It took St. Norbert 8½ minutes to get its first lead in the game, 18-17 (on Zeihen's basket), but the Knights retained the advantage for the next 16 minutes of playing time. Dennis Kirchoff's only goal of the game pulled comebacking Lawrence even, at 49-49, with 15:31 left to play.

For the next seven minutes or so, the scoring pace was furious, and the lead changed hands five times. Zeihen's rebound basket, with 9:35 remaining, pulled the Knights even for the last time.

Schultz stormed underneath and scored after a pass from Kirchoff for a 67-65 Lawrence lead with 8:36 left. The Vikes got stronger by the minute and pulled away to an 11-point lead at three different times (81-70, 83-72 and 85-74).

Lawrence played ball control for a good portion of the final three minutes. Steinmetz scored the capper at the final buzzer.

Hits 50 Per Cent

For the entire game, Lawrence shot at a 50 per cent field goal clip (34 of 68). St. Norbert hit on 35 of 92, for 38 per cent. The Vikes compensated for a 1-basket deficit by sinking 21 of 32 free throws. St. Norbert meshed 12 of 16 from the line.

Schultz was named the tourney's most valuable player. Chosen with him on the all-tourney team were Steinmetz, Zeihen, Rankin and Northland's Bob Hammen.

Milton rallied to edge Northland, 75-73, for third-place honors. Milton didn't gain its first lead until only 8:45 remained in the game. The winners' Ron Grovesteen and Northland's Jim Hanrahan each scored 24 points.

Nebraska averaged 32.1 points a game in going undefeated through a 10-game schedule and into a No. 3 national ranking. The Cornhuskers were second only to Arkansas in scoring and second to none in rushing offense, in which they compiled an imposing average of 290 yards a game.

Appleton High School guard Pat Garvey (20) makes a vain effort to nab a pass which sailed over his head and out of bounds in the first half against Manitowoc Thursday night in the AHS gym. Also trying for the ball is Manitowoc's Bob Rosinsky (12). The pass was typical of the game played by both teams as a total of 39 turnovers marked the contest. Comeback Miraculous

Jerry Kramer Was in Doctor's Office When He Heard He Was Dead

By JACK HAND

GREEN BAY (AP) — Jerry Kramer was sitting in his doctor's office last March when he first heard the rumor that he was dead.

"A friend of mine heard the story and called the doctor," said the fun-loving Green Bay Packer guard. "I got on the phone and assured him I wasn't dead. Pretty soon a writer from Milwaukee called. I got so many calls that I decided I had better walk around town a little to show people."

"When I went into a barber shop in De Pere, the barber took one look and said, 'Fifteen minutes ago we were all saying what a great guy you were. Now you're just your same old nasty self.'"

"I got to be too much. So I called the neighbors and decided to have a wake. Gary Knafelc (former Green Bay end, now retired) went out and bought a headstone. My doctor brought some old wilted flowers. We got a keg of beer and had a party."

Normal Size

"I weighed only about 210 pounds (normally 245). I'd just come back from Mayo's. My ears looked about three times their normal size and my face was gray and ashen. Gary and I were sitting in the kitchen talking. I told him I was sure I wasn't dead, but Gary said, 'How do you know? You've never been there.' It was a little weird."

Weird is the word for Jerry Kramer's reactions. Miraculous is the word they use around here in speaking of Kramer's comeback.

Down through the years Jerry has been involved in so many accidents that he is hem-stitched from stem to stern.

He cracked up a car at 100 miles an hour, backed into a lathe and lost part of his backside, shot most of his right arm away in a hunting accident, and fell off a college dormitory roof while trying to bag a flag for a souvenir and suffered a chipped vertebra in his neck.

Dislocated Ankle

Then there was the time his football career almost ended because of a severely dislocated ankle, and again because of a detached retina.

But the accident that forced him to undergo eight major operations in the last year happened when he was a kid. Chasing a calf on a ranch back home in Idaho, he jammed a piece of broken fence into his stomach. They pulled some slivers out but years later, when he began to suffer severe stomach pains, they discovered some slivers still remained.

Three splinters of wood, two of them 4½ inches long, were removed from his abdomen during a series of operations at the Mayo Clinic. Jerry has them at home as souvenirs. The last operation was performed last June, a few weeks before it was time for the Packers to go to training camp.

"Nobody really thought he could come back but Jerry himself," said Coach Vince Lombardi.

"He came to camp and insisted he was going to play," Lombardi said. "We used him a few plays at a time in the early games. Maybe I was too cautious but I was thinking about the boy, or rather the man. Because this fellow is a real man."

Two Alligators

While recovering from one of the operations Jerry went skiing and then scuba diving in Mexico. The doctors flagged down a projected hunting expedition for grizzly bears. They didn't stop him from going hunting in Louisiana for alligators—with a bow and arrow — and bagging two.

Jerry took up skiing one year and became an instructor the next season. When he became interested in the bow and arrow, he made himself the second best archer in the Green Bay area in six months. In fact, he is opening a bow and arrow factory in the area.

When the Packers meet Cleveland for the National Football League championship Sunday, Jerry Kramer will be playing right guard wearing No. 64. If you want to watch a hunk of man, keep an eye on that number. The wake has been postponed indefinitely.

Record Field Expected for Skate Classic

Waupaca Event Scheduled for Sunday Afternoon

WAUPACA—A record field is scheduled to don skates for participation in the eighth annual Waupaca Speed Skating Classic to be held at Shadow Lake, 12:30 p.m. Sunday.

The list of entries is expected to top the 175 participants that skated in the 1965 contest.

Skating conditions on Illinois rinks have been poor and forced cancellation of a state meet last week. Weather is threatening to have the planned New Years meet postponed.

If the Illinois meet should be canceled as many as 300 skaters could make the entry field the biggest ever.

Local speed skaters have been receiving instruction this week from Ray Novak, member of the Lilac Skating Club, Lombard, Ill. He is the brother of Mary Novak Sand, who formerly skated with the Waupaca Club.

Senior division skaters entered include Madison's Bill Carrow, Howie Gutgesell, Jim Laubey and Bill Moore. Well known skaters in the junior division will be Murray Marks, Dan Weems and Eugene Goodman.

Mary Sand, last year's senior women state champion will be competing in the meet. Top ranking girls entered in the intermediate division will be Dorothea Mueller and Pam Peckham.

Waupaca Skating Club members expected to make a good showing are last year's top scorers, Arlys Jenkins; Tim Leopold and Karen Jenkins.

Appleton's Leopold was a Silver Skates champion in the juvenile division last year and will advance to the junior competition this year.

Arlys was one of the top ranked junior girls in the state last year and will compete in the same class this year. Karen, an intermediate competitor last year, has advanced to the senior women's class.

Steve Kagen, Appleton, one of the club's top scoring boys last year will not be able to compete because of a knee injury received in football.

West Crushes South, 81-49, To Take Lead

GREEN BAY — Green Bay West, using a magnificent defense and a sizzling fast break, demolished Sheboygan South here Thursday night, 81-49. The win kept West's record intact at 7-0 and spoiled South's 6-game winning streak. It also gave West undisputed ownership of first place in the Fox River Valley Conference.

Jim Anderson, who had scored only 22 points in all six previous games, dumped exactly that many against the Redmen but his most outstanding contribution was on defense where he stopped South's gifted John Meyer with just two baskets and nine points. Mark Trumm, the other half of South's strong one-two punch, was frustrated with a mere three points by West's Dennis Gutzman.

South led 2-0 on Meyer's two free throws at the start of the game but West hit the next 16 points and South, which had been the highest scoring team in the league, didn't get a field goal until the final 35 seconds of the period. West led 16-4 at the end of the quarter and continually built its margin, the biggest cushion being 35 points in the fourth quarter.

Manitowoc JVs Halt AHS Skein At 26 Straight

The Appleton High School Junior varsity basketball team saw its 3-season, 26-game Fox Valley JV Conference victory string snapped by Manitowoc, 57-47, here Thursday night.

The John Graff-coached Junior Terrors had rolled up six straight wins this season.

The victory boosted unbeaten Manitowoc (7-0) into sole possession of first place in the FRVC junior varsity circuit.

Tom Hintz and George Mills led Appleton with 19 and 10 points, respectively. Tom Haag, Pete Schleis and Bill Spenfelski tallied 16, 16 and 15 for the Junior Ships.

APPLETON JV — (8 10 5 24-47) Meyer 2 0 4; Hintz 9 1 3; Mackey 1 3 1; Van Handel 1 0 3; Stack 2 3 2; Mills 5 0 4; Dillon 0 0 2. Totals 20 7 19.

MANITOWOC JV — (9 12 13 23-57) Check 2 1 0; Spenfelski 5 4; Nesper 0 1 0; Haag 5 6 3; Walsh 1 0 0; Schleis 6 4 2; Hamacher 1 0 1; Miedel 0 1 1. Totals 21 11 11.

Russell Paces Celtic Win

Bill Boosts His Career Rebound Total to 16,023

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Bill Russell and rebounding go together like the Boston Celtics and winning.

The lean and agile center, who has led the Celts to eight National Basketball Association titles in his nine seasons as a pro, boosted his career rebound record past the 16,000 mark Thursday night.

And Boston beat the San Francisco Warriors 116-113. Russell pulled down 28 rebounds in the close one at Providence, R.I., making his total 16,023, while John Havlicek, Tom Sanders and Don Nelson paced the Celtic scoring. San Francisco led by as many as 10 in the third period, but Boston raced back for an 86-86 tie going into the final quarter and broke it open in the closing moments.

Havlicek got 32 points, Sanders and Nelson added 25 apiece, and Guy Rodgers topped the Warriors with 23.

Elsewhere in the NBA — the Detroit Pistons ended their losing string at eight games, edging the Los Angeles Lakers 117-114 with John Barnhill's free throws clinching the decision, and newcomers Rod Thorn and Joe Caldwell led the St. Louis Hawks over the Philadelphia 76ers 130-113.

Jim Ryun Cuis 6 Seconds Off Sugar Bowl Mark
NEW ORLEANS (AP) — Jim Ryun, University of Kansas freshman, cut almost six seconds off the Sugar Bowl record in the 1,500-meter run Thursday with a 3:42.7 effort, about equivalent to a 3:59 mile run. Charles Christmas of Abilene Christian was second, George Scott of New Mexico was third and Tommy Farrell of St. John's University was fourth.

The 18-year-old Kansan, a member of the U.S. Olympic team in 1964, wiped out the mark of 3:48.5 set by Dwyll Burleson of Oregon in 1959.

Kaukauna Man Injured Slightly in Accident

KAUKAUNA — Gerald Kuehl, 33, 1601 Glenview Ave., suffered a cut knee and a bump on the head when the car which he was driving south on Crooks Avenue was struck from behind by a vehicle driven by Jerome Head, 40, Stockbridge, about 4:40 p.m. Thursday.

Kuehl told police he had slowed down and was pulling to the curb when the Head car pushed his vehicle over the curb onto the terrace.

Head was given a citation for inattentive driving.

Cheese Summary

MADISON (AP) — Wisconsin cheddar cheese prices were unchanged this week and movement of stocks was normal for the holiday period, the Agricultural Marketing Service Reported today. Demand was fair to good. Supplies of current 40-pound cutting blocks continued short while other current styles were generally adequate.

American cheese production for the week ending Dec. 23 was estimated at 17.4 million pounds, up 5 per cent in the nation and 3 in Wisconsin compared with a week earlier.

The Swiss cheese market continued fully steady to firm with unchanged prices. Demand was good. Buying interest for lower grades exceeded the supply.

Milwaukeean To be Named in Assault on Boy

22-Year-Old Man Admits Beating, Leaving Lad of 12

WAUKESHA (AP) — Waukesha County Sheriff Robert L. Baird said a warrant was to be issued today naming a 22-year-old Milwaukee youth as the assailant of a 12-year-old West Allis boy. Sheriff Baird said the youth signed a confession Thursday. The boy, James Ottow, was found early Thursday beneath a bridge in eastern Waukesha County. Sheriff Baird said the youth, who is married, admitted beating, blindfolding and tying the boy and then leaving him in a semi-conscious condition. Arrested at Home Waukesha County Sergeant James Carroll said the suspect was arrested at his home after authorities found an abandoned automobile not far from the scene of the incident. James is reported in satisfactory condition in a hospital with a broken ankle, internal injuries, and possible fracture of a leg. Baird gave credit to the seventh grader for the man's early arrest. "The boy provided us with a good description," Baird said. Baird said the suspect was returned to the scene of the incident, where he reconstructed events that transpired. James was found about 6:45 a.m. semiconscious under the Highway JJ bridge over Highway 164. His shoes were missing, a pair of men's socks was tied over his eyes and another pair was tied around his neck.

R. A. Glaser Pays $25 Fine, Costs On Driving Count

Richard A. Glaser, 25, 3838 N. Ballard Road, pleaded no contest Thursday afternoon to a charge of reckless driving and was fined $25 and costs by County Judge Gustave J. Keller, who found him guilty. The charge was reduced from attempting to elude a traffic officer on a motion by Asst. Dist. Atty. Richard A. Hamilton. Glaser had pleaded innocent of the former charge when he appeared in Outagamie County Court Branch 2, last month. Trial date had been set for Jan. 3. Glaser was driving a car that crashed into a tree at Sidney and Second Streets in Kimberly about 1 a.m. Nov. 1. A passenger in the car, Robert Price, 22, 2633 W. Capitol Drive, is awaiting trial on Jan. 3 after pleading innocent of disorderly conduct.

Kiwanis to See Film On Objectives in '66

LITTLE CHUTE — A film strip, "Theme and Objectives," a report by the president about 1966, will be shown at a Kiwanis Club luncheon at 6 p.m. Tuesday at Hammen's Restaurant. Nick VanderPas will narrate the film. Plans will be discussed for attendance at the mid-winter conference at Madison Jan. 15 and 16.

Special Services Scheduled in City For Start of 1966

KAUKAUNA — Several city churches have scheduled special services for New Year's Eve while Roman Catholic parishes will celebrate special masses on New Year's Day, the Octave of Christmas. A watch night service will begin at the Assembly of God Church at 9 p.m. today. The Rev. Walter Tyson, pastor, will speak on "A Good Resolution."

Four Directors To be Elected

KAUKAUNA — Ballots have been sent Chamber of Commerce members to elect four members of the board of directors to serve from 1966 through 1969. Space has been provided for write-in candidates. If sufficient write-ins are received, a run-off election will be held at the annual Chamber of Commerce dinner Jan. 27. Names on the ballot include Harold Feller, Eugene King, Clarence O'Connor and Thomas Thoma. Ballots are to be returned to the Chamber office prior to the annual dinner to permit tabulation of voting. Winners will be announced at the dinner. Board members whose terms expire include Norbert Rhinerson, Donald Swetz, Kenneth Vock and Joseph Walsh.

State Farm Mutual Increases Its Rates

BLOOMINGTON, Ill. (AP) — Wisconsin policyholders of State Farm Mutual will have their auto insurance rates increased by an average of 10.4 per cent effective Jan. 1, the company announced today.

2nd Candidate Seeks Election In Third Ward

KAUKAUNA — James McDaniel, 311 W. Third St., has taken nomination papers for Third Ward alderman, becoming the second candidate for the post. McDaniel, a heavy equipment operator for the county, has run for the office previously. Norman Meinert, former alderman, also has taken papers. George Simon, incumbent, has not yet taken out papers. Two aldermen will be elected from the ward, the one receiving the highest number of votes to serve for two years and the one running second will serve a 1-year term.

Warrents Issued For Man on Three Bad Check Counts

Four warrants have been issued through Outagamie County charging a former Appleton area man with one count of absconding from a motel and three counts of issuing worthless checks. Charged in the warrants signed Thursday afternoon was John H. Oliver, about 32, who worked as an automobile salesman here after coming from Rice Lake. Dist. Atty. Nick F. Schaefer said Oliver is being held in Las Vegas, Nev., for authorities here. The first warrant alleges that Oliver absconded owing a bill at the Fox City Motel in Kaukauna. The other three complaints allege that the Appleton man cashed five worthless checks ranging in amounts from $10 to $35 at Black Creek and Appleton business places from Sept. 23 to Nov. 20. Schaefer said Oliver has indicated he would not waive extradition to Wisconsin. Extradition papers have been prepared for Wisconsin and Nevada governors.

Public Works Meeting

KAUKAUNA — The board of public works will meet at 6:30 p.m. Monday to draw specifications for two new trucks for the street department and to discuss renewal of the bridge agreement with the state.

Peshtigo Driver Gets Months for Operating After License Revoked

Cyril R. Matecki, 24, 160 Ellis Ave., Peshtigo, was sentenced to four months in jail Thursday after he pleaded guilty of operating a motor vehicle after his driver's license was revoked. County Judge Gustave J. Keller ordered that the sentence run concurrent with a term Matecki is serving in Milwaukee County. Matecki is wanted by that county as a walkaway Huber Law prisoner. Judge Keller also ordered if the four month sentence imposed Thursday expires after the Milwaukee County term, Matecki is to be returned to jail here. The Peshtigo man was arrested Wednesday in the Town of Grand Chute by state traffic police.

Openings Remain In KVS Classes For 2nd Semester

KAUKAUNA — A few openings remain in several second semester classes at the Kaukauna School of Vocational and Adult Education and two new courses are being introduced, according to Dominic Bordini, director. Second semester classes will get underway Jan. 10. Persons desiring to join a class may call the school. Class openings remain in modern literature, machine shop, blueprint reading, beginning clothes, crocheting, holiday workshop, jewelry and lapidary, office machines, knitting, water color and oil painting, shorthand refresher, typing, welding, woodworking and bookkeeping. New courses are driver improvement and an adult film discussion series. Persons interested in courses applicable for high school credit may call the office for information. Several classes in the academic and technical areas have openings and are applicable for high school credit.

Vandals Have Damaged Seat Cushions on City's Northeast Side

Appleton police still are investigating five incidents of seat slashing that occurred in the same part of the city last weekend. Latest to report damage were Kenneth Missing, 2107 N. Alexander St., Donald Roemer, 1536 E. Francis St., and Harry Barkholtz Jr., 1507 E. Marquette St. The damage occurred Wednesday night or early Thursday. The front seat cushions of the Missing and Roemer cars were slashed and both front and rear seats of the Barkholtz car were damaged. The cars were in owners' driveways when the damage occurred, police said.

Return to Punching Bag Is Fracturing Experience for Wallace

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP) — The last time Gov. George A. Wallace of Alabama delivered a hard right to a heavy punching bag was 23 years ago. The governor, onetime amateur boxing champ, tried it again Thursday in the gym of a hotel — and fractured his right wrist. "The governor was working out and there was this big punching bag hanging there," said his press aide, Bill Jones. "It was too much to resist." He was "very stoical about it," according to the house doctor who said Wallace endured considerable pain. Wallace, a trim 160 pounds at age 46, was Golden Gloves bantamweight champion (118 pounds maximum) in Alabama in 1936-37.

Cropland Program to Cut 40 Million Acres Out of Production

Portion of 1966 Agricultural Act Outlines Shift Toward Public Recreational Lands

The Cropland Adjustment Program (CAP) authorized by the Food and Agriculture Act of 1965, is aimed at removing from surplus production up to 40 million acres for periods of 5-10 years.

Emphasis will be on shifting this land into public benefit uses which also conserve soil and water to meet future needs. It supplements the yearly commodity programs and will reduce over-all program costs by obtaining acreage diversions at lower rates over extended periods of time. Long-term agreements afford farmers more stability and thus better opportunity for planning adjustments in land use.

The new program is designed to protect local communities by limiting the amount of land that can be put under the program. In any county or community, no more than 10 per cent of the allotment or base acreage for any crop or of total cropland will be contracted in any single year, and no more than 25 per cent during the life of the program. Exceptions will be

Calumet Leader Training Course Starts Tuesday

CHILTON — Adult 4-H leadership training course will start Tuesday at the courthouse and continue for four weeks. Classes will include textbook and homework assignments. No enrollment fee will be charged.

Subjects will include how to conduct project meetings, parliamentary procedure, educational psychology, understanding different age groups, name and face memory work, public speaking, and a study of the history of 4-H club work.

Tuesday afternoon classes are planned at the court house again Jan. 11 and 25 and Feb. 1 from 1:15 - 3:15 p.m. Thursday evening sessions will be at Hilbert High School Jan. 6, 13, 27, and Feb. 3. Leaders may attend at either place.

Classes will be limited to 15 per class. Additional classes will be scheduled later in the winter.

Calumet 4-H Leaders Prepare 1966 Program; Donate to Foundation

CHILTON — The Calumet 4-H leaders executive board met recently to end the 1965 business year. Programs were set up for the 1966 club year. Payment of $91 to the Wisconsin 4-H Foundation for benefits in the 1966 club program was approved.

Plans for remodeling the exposition building at the county fairgrounds was tabled until the January leader's council meeting. Pikerama committee and arrangements were discussed and placed on the agenda for January. Letters for leaders on the 4-H care package program are to be sent to the clubs.

The Kennedy Club has already considered entering the world wide operation of help for other countries.

District ADA Meeting Set At Wrightstown Jan. 13

Three committeemen and seven delegates are to be elected at the American Dairy Association (ADA) District 8 annual meeting Jan. 13 at Wrightstown High School, according to Vernon Schultz, Manitowoc, district committee chairman.

Opening with a film at 11:30 a.m. and followed by a hot lunch, the business session will begin at 1 p.m. and include a preview of the 1966 ADA promotional program.

Miss Kathy Kenas, Wisconsin's Alice In Dairyland, will headline the program, speaking on her experiences in traveling across the nation promoting the sale of the state's dairy products.

A special session for the women will be conducted by Miss Jane Comings, ADA home economist. She will discuss the new ADA cookbook, review the home services department and women's participation in dairy product participation.

The three committeemen will be selected from the following nominees: Schultz, Hilmer Mueller, Seymour; Clifford Conradt, Shioclon; Sieve Siudzinski, Denmark, and Leo Krohn, Luxemburg. Terms of Schultz, William O'Brien, Denmark, and Siudzinski are expiring.

Puerto Rico-Hawaii

Soil Conservationists Compare Their Notes at Arizona Awards Program

BY RAY PAGEL

(Post-Crescent News Service) PHOENIX, Ariz. — The heavyset man identified by his badge as a resident of Puerto Rico had an Old Home Week handshake.

"I have been to Green Bay, two years ago," he declared. "I bought a Holstein bull there." From the Reformatory, I surmised.

"Yes, the Reformatory. I also bought two Holsteins from the Bartlett Farms (Oshkosh) and one at Lakeside Farms (Elkhart Lake). They are all very excellent animals."

Mariano Mari's Spanish accent became familiar during the following days. He was an enthusiastic participant in the annual pre-Christmas Soil Conservation Awards Program hosted by the Goodyear Tire and Rubber people at their famed Arizona enterprise near Phoenix.

With Mari from Puerto Rico came Fabian Betancourt, winner of the island's soil conservation award this year. Mari is chairman of the supervisors who direct the soil and water work in Betancourt's district.

Similar two-man teams were Goodyear guests as representatives of 49 of the States. Alaska which recently set up a conservation program, will be invited to send award winners beginning next year.

There was a good deal to see, but there was a good deal of talking, too, during our four days here. You got the idea that there's no place like home, and everybody likes it there.

Puerto Rico, according to Mari, is more than sugar cane, rum and tourists. His herd of Holsteins on 500 acres runs to 200 head, producing for the Grade A fluid market. Betancourt, on 60 acres, is milking 20 cows.

"He built it up from nothing," Mari praised his friend.

Feed Green Chop

Dairymen in that island commonwealth feed green chop all year 'round. Their forage is mainly elephant grass, with some corn. Alfalfa won't flourish there, and they find it cheaper to buy concentrates than try to grow them.

Soil conservation? "We do terracing, strip cropping and grassland work, much like everywhere," Mari replied.

Both men are members of the American Farm Bureau Federation, which has a roster of 16,000 in Puerto Rico. Mari is active in Lions International, too, and has attended their conventions in Canada and the United States.

Cattle From Wisconsin

Robert E. Todd, of Henderson, Ky., shared Mari's admiration for our dairy cattle back home.

"Wisconsin Holsteins have taken over in Kentucky," he reported.

Todd and Ben Werk, a combination radio man and farmer from Canton, Ohio, engaged in a spirited disputation over the merits of a Cadillac-type silo manufactured in Wisconsin. They called on me fessor said in a telephone interview with a correspondent in Moscow that he had found no significant reaction in the North Vietnamese capital to the lull in American air raids.

The professor, Staughton Lynd, and two other Americans, Thomas Hayden and Communist theoretician Herbert Aptheker, have been in Hanoi since Tuesday on a private mission they say is to clarify the Communist position on peace negotiations.

Sen. Stuart Symington, D-Mo., on a visit to Viet Nam, strongly criticized the three Americans for the unauthorized trip to the Communist North. Symington, a Yale alumnus, declared such activities "increase the determination of the North Vietnamese not to sit down at the conference table."

Although U.S. fighter-bombers spared the North from attack for another day, the big B52s of the Strategic Air Command roared in from Guam and pounded a suspected Viet Cong area in western Tay Ninh Province 75 miles northwest of Saigon near the Cambodian border. Asked to specify the target, an Air Force spokesman said: "Just about the whole area."

430 Sorties

Other U.S. Air Force and Navy planes and Vietnamese aircraft flew 430 combat sorties in the South, smashing buildings, sinking six sampans and strafing trenches and caves, the spokesman said.

Along the central coast, strong Communist forces were reported to have seized two outposts guarding the valley approaches to Quang Ngai city in a drive helped by heavy rain that hampered U.S. counterattacks from the air. One U.S. plane was hit by groundfire and crashed, presumably killing the pilot.

U.S. military officials saw the thrust as a possible forerunner of a campaign against Quang Ngai, 30 miles southeast of the U.S. Marine beachhead at Chu Lai. The city is capital of the province of the same name and lies 330 miles northeast of Saigon a few miles inland from the South China Sea.

Battle Area

Reports from the battle area indicated that the Communists, including North Vietnamese troops, had captured Minh Long, a district headquarters 15 miles south of Quang Ngai, and an outpost near Son Ha, another headquarters 15 miles west of the provincial capital. The attacks scattered the South Vietnamese defenders who appeared to be trying to link up with friendly troops.

Flying over Communist positions north of Minh Long, a spotter reported "a fantastic number of enemy troops in real deep ditches shoulder to shoulder, with camouflage over their heads." U.S. planes pounded the area and pilots estimated they killed 80 enemy soldiers but reported no evidence of a Communist withdrawal.

Six helicopters tried to bring food and ammunition to one government outpost still holding out but only two were able to land in the blaze of Communist machine guns.

Major Loring

With the Communists largely in control of the coastal lowlands between Quang Ngai and the sea, relief for the provincial capital might entail a major amphibious landing by U.S. Marines supported by the 7th Fleet.

As the moratorium in the air war against the Communist North entered the second week, 11 U.S. Air Force "spy" planes arrived in Saigon to join the new 16th Reconnaissance Squadron commanded by Lt. Col. Morgan R. Beamer of Salinas, Calif.

The supersonic RF4C's are reconnaissance versions of the Phantom fighter-bombers equipped with highly advanced detection gear. The planes fly at 1,600 miles an hour and will be used to gather intelligence on enemy positions under jungle canopies, informants said.

Despite the suspension of attacks on the North, reconnaissance flights were reported continuing to check on troop movements and the effectiveness of efforts to repair damage from U.S. attacks.

34,585 Killed

On the last day of the year, the U.S. command reported that 34,585 Communist soldiers had been killed in combat and nearly 6,000 captured in 1965. The announcement said 1,241 Americans and about 11,000 government troops were killed during the year.

The Pentagon, meanwhile, announced in Washington that 51 Americans died in battle in the seven-day period ending Monday night despite a Christmas cease-fire. This brought total U.S. war dead since Jan. 1, 1961, to 1,597, the announcement said.

The number of Americans missing in action rose by eight to a total of 149, the Pentagon said.

In Seoul, the South Korean Defense Ministry said that its 17,000 troops in Viet Nam had killed a total of 657 Communists and may have killed another 370 since they arrived in October.

Ambassadors Broaden U. S. Peace Offensive

Pope Paul VI Wednesday and Italian officials Thursday.

Some sources had indicated Goldberg would confer only with De Gaulle but the sudden convening of the permanent council was in keeping with President Johnson's peace offensive, designed to give foreign officials and statesmen maximum exposure to the U.S. position.

In Washington

In Washington, Vu Van Thai, South Viet Nam's ambassador to the United States, described the peace moves as a test to see if North Viet Nam is ready for "a true peace settlement."

Thai said in an interview that the U.S. effort "is not just an ultimatum for surrender."

"I feel everything has been done to create the conditions to show we are ready in sincerely seeking a settlement," he said.

De Gaulle has been critical of U.S. policy, and has urged a neutrality plan for the Indochinese peninsula (North and South Viet Nam, Laos and Cambodia). He has not said, however, how this neutrality should be enforced, nor has he defined Communist China's role.

Ottawa Visit

In addition to the Harriman and Goldberg forays, President Johnson's campaign also included an Ottawa visit between presidential assistant George Bundy and Canadian Prime Minister Lester B. Pearson. Pearson later talked to Johnson by telephone.

All the visits were veiled in secrecy, and made public only after the Americans had arrived at their destinations.

In Texas, White House press secretary Bill D. Moyers said discussions also were going on between U.S. officials and other governments. Moyers, however, declined to discuss them further. Some sources say the United States is seeking peace talks through intermediaries.

Moyers said the President, spending the holidays at his Texas ranch, is keeping in touch with Secretary of State Dean Rusk, but added: "The extent to which he is receiving reports is something I am unable to deal with."

Hanoi Charge

The peace hopes received another swipe from North Viet Nam Thursday when Radio Hanoi declared:

"As long as the U.S. aggressors are still unwilling to really recognize our government's stand, all their contentions about peace negotiations are only hypocritical and aimed at deceiving public opinion."

Earlier Statements

Similar statements were made earlier this week by Communist North Viet Nam.

Nonetheless, informed Washington sources expressed some guarded optimism that the current peace probes may yet bring some results. At least, it was noted, there has been no rebuff to the lull in bombing operations against North Viet Nam.

U.S. officials made clear that if Hanoi continues to push into South Viet Nam there were only two alternatives: for the United States to get out of South Viet Nam, or to meet the Communist forces. The decision has been made that "we will meet them," one official said, if that becomes necessary.

The State Department late Thursday released a transcript of an interview with Secretary of State Dean Rusk filmed Dec. 23 with the Canadian Broadcasting Corp. It said in part that contacts with the Communist side have been "clear, easy and frequent" but the problem is that we have "not yet found a basis for peace."

Shall Continue

"We shall continue to explore that possibility through every channel that is open, and we would hope that somehow that the new year can open up possibilities that we have not yet seen during 1965," Rusk said.

South Viet Nam diplomat Vu Van Thai said: "Our two countries (United States and South Viet Nam) have made clear that our proposals are not to destroy North Viet Nam — we have no aggressive designs — but to defend South Viet Nam and the rest of Southeast Asia from the threat of having a Communist ideology imposed on us by aggression."

South Viet Nam, he said, would require that any settlement with the Communist side carry guarantees against the risk of becoming a satellite of Communist China.

Official U.S. sources said that the heart of the problem was the insistence by North Viet Nam that there must be advance acceptance of their four point program.

Without Conditions

clear since President Johnson's April 7 speech in Baltimore, that the negotiations can be launched without any prior conditions for either side.

The major difficulty, authorities said, was Communist insistence that the program of the Communist National Liberation Front be accepted.

U.S. officials made clear that if Hanoi continues to push into South Viet Nam there were only two alternatives: for the United States to get out of South Viet Nam, or to meet the Communist forces. The decision has been made that "we will meet them," one official said, if that becomes necessary.

Warm, Snow, Rain, Cold About Nation

Near-Blizzards in Dakotas; Midwest Seems Like Summer

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

A crazy - quilt weather pattern, a combination of winter and spring temperatures, rain, snow and warm and cold winds, featured the nation's climatic picture today.

A wintry storm, with snow, ice, cold and strong northerly winds, whipped across the northern Plains and headed eastward. Temperatures fell below zero across the Plains of eastern Montana and the western Dakotas.

More rain and snow fell in the storm-swept Pacific Coast region but amounts generally were lighter than during the first part of the week.

Clouds, Mild

Cloudy skies and unseasonably mild temperatures covered broad areas east of the Mississippi River to the Atlantic Coast.

The mercury hit record high marks for Dec. 31 early today in some Midwest cities, including 61 at Moline, Ill. The weather bureau said readings in some cities equaled nighttime marks during the summer season.

Cold-wave warnings were in effect in Montana east of the Continental Divide and the gusty winds fanned the Arctic air eastward into the Dakotas and Minnesota.

Near-blizzard conditions were reported at Dickinson, N.D. Snow amounts up to four inches were expected in the storm belt. Heavy fog in southern Minnesota Thursday night cut visibility to a few feet.

Girl Reports She Was Raped

14-Year-Old Says She Was Attacked Near New London

Outagamie County and New London authorities are investigating the reported rape of a 14-year-old New London girl Thursday evening.

County authorities, who were called by the girl's parents about 12:30 a.m. today, said they were told the girl was walking from her route 1, New London, home to a friend's house when a car pulled up and she was pulled into the vehicle.

Three men were in the car, she reportedly told police. They drove around New London for a while and then went into the country where police said the girl told of being held down by one of the men and raped by the other two in the back seat of the car.

The girl told police she later jumped out of the car and hid near a culvert until the men drove off. She then walked toward town and was picked up by a friend. Doctors were to examine the girl today, authorities said.

Weed Killer Evaluations Are Sketchy

Legalities of Use Pesticide Conference Topic in Madison

Many Wisconsin farmers have begun using a new weed killer combination — atrazine in oil-water emulsion. Although it does not have U.S. Department of Education (USDA) registration, and residue and performance evaluations are "sketchy."

What risks does a farmer take in using the new combination now, rather than waiting for registration and further evaluations: Ron Doersch, a University of Wisconsin weed control specialist will attempt to explain the situation at the 20th Annual Wisconsin Pesticide Conference with Industry, Jan. 5 and 6 in the Park Motor Inn.

Doersch says it's legal to use the combination because both have been approved individually for use on corn. Any combination of individually approved compounds may be legally used.

This, however, does not guarantee the effectiveness of the atrazine-oil combination, says Doersch. There is limited evidence on effectiveness of the combination, or how safe it is to use. If addition of oil increases accumulation of atrazine in weeds, it may also increase accumulation in corn. This could result in an illegal residue, or in injury to corn.

combination would not make it any more legal. But registration would give farmers some protection against possible financial loss due to illegal crop residues.

Trials of atrazine-oil so far have not given clear-cut results. In South Dakota a pound of atrazine per acre in oil and water was as effective as two- and one-half pounds in water alone. The reduced application rate suggested by these results would reduce soil residues. But on the other hand soil residues may be necessary to control late season weeds.

Weed control researchers expect atrazine with oil applied directly on the leaves to be more effective than atrazine in water. But in trials by the University of Wisconsin, atrazine in oil did not give better control of giant foxtail.

Doersch says that the University of Wisconsin will not recommend use of the combination until appropriate residue analyses and further performance evaluation have been made, and the combination is given USDA registration.

Project for 4-H

Beautify Yards With Fresh Paint

BY COURTNEY SCHWERTZ

Outagamie County 4-H Club Agent

Old buildings, sheds, fences and corrals can make an excellent 4-H yard beautification project with just a little work and a new coat of paint.

The Forest Products Laboratory in Madison has recently developed a formula for a new stain that shows much promise for use on farm buildings and fences.

Fortified iron oxide linseed oil base stain is a modification of the dark redwood natural finish developed for house siding. The original stain was designed to retain the original redwood color without hiding the grain of the wood.

The new stain has a double dose of pigment. It hides more wood grain than is desired on homes, but is very practical on farm buildings, equipment or fences.

The additional pigment increases the life of the stain. One coat of it applied to rough sawn or weathered wood may last from eight to 10 years. One coat on smooth, planed surfaces will last about three years.

The finish penetrates into the wood without forming a continuous film on the surface. Therefore, it will not blister, crack, peel or scale even if moisture penetrates into the wood.

The stain, applied by either brush or spray, is more durable on rough surfaces because more stain is absorbed. Apply at the rate of one gallon per 200-250 square feet on rough surfaces — one gallon per 400-500 square feet on smooth surfaces. It is best to let dense, smooth wood such as exterior plywood or flat boards of oak, pine, and fir weather several months before applying the stain.

Prepare the stain by using a gallon of high quality red iron oxide barn paint as a base. The paint should contain about 55 per cent pigment. One-third of it should be ferric or iron oxide. The paint should contain about 85 per cent linseed oil, soybean oil or other "drying oil". Thin it by adding two gallons of boiled

Blueprint Study Of Agriculture Is Expected

Report on Future
To 1980 Topic of Forum at Madison

A "blueprint report" on the future of agriculture and rural communities in Wisconsin projected to 1980 will be made public at the 1966 Agricultural Industries Conference and Public Affairs Forum Jan. 25-29 at the University of Wisconsin.

A committee of College of Agriculture faculty members has been working on the report for more than a year, according to Dean Glenn Pound. Their findings will be reported at the Public Affairs Forum Jan. 28.

The committee's findings indicate that there are "significant problems ahead in the manner and rate at which we use our natural resources," says Pound. We know that the era of "easy resources" is over and that we will need to maintain with great care our water, soil, air, forests, minerals and land space.

A number of technical programs have also been planned for the four-day conference. The Jan. 25 session will include programs for egg producers, greenhouse operators, fertilizer and lime dealers, and rural writers. A workshop for music directors of amateur adult and youth music groups will be Tuesday, and a new Wisconsin musical comedy—"Ice Cream Seven Times A Day"—will be presented in the Memorial Union Theater.

On Wednesday programs will be initiated for hotel-motel-resort owners and for dairy manufacturers. The honorary recognition banquet will also be held at 6:15 p.m. Wednesday in the Memorial Union.

Thursday's session includes a program on "Water Problems in Wisconsin"; programs for town and country church leaders and dairy plant fieldmen; and a dairy science discussion of dairy replacement grading.

On Friday a Wisconsin Art Seminar will be held in the Wisconsin Center Building. The Wisconsin Chapter of the Soil Conservation Society of America will meet to discuss "Conservation at the Crossroads."

Southern Wisconsin Project

Roadside Beauty Preserved

Prospects for natural beauty improved on 44-and-a-half miles of southern Wisconsin rural roadsides during 1965, the pilot year for a selective brush control management plan.

It promises to increase the esthetic value of the country road, provide wildlife cover and food, and make management of roadsides rights-of-way easier. Nine Wisconsin counties are represented in the plan now being carried out on 12 selected roadsides.

So far the program has been emphasized in southern Wisconsin where destruction of roadside cover has been most severe, say Robert Ellarson, University of Wisconsin wildlife specialist; and Ron Doersch, University week control specialist. Counties already under the plan are Walworth, Jefferson, Dane, Green, Grant, Columbia, Washington, Green Lake and Marquette. In 1966 the program will be expanded in these and any other counties that wish to participate.

Field Demonstrations

A number of "field demonstrations" of selective brush control will be held throughout the state in the coming year so that other towns can evaluate the program, say Doersch and Ellarson.

The demonstrations will give county highway commissions, town board chairmen and town and county highway crews a look at what kinds of roadsides are selected; how they are marked for treatment; and how selective brush management is carried out.

Selective brush management is practically the opposite of right-of-way management principles currently accepted. It calls for removing only tall trees and shrubs, undesirable woody shrubs and noxious weeds, while leaving desirable plants and shrubs. Most township and county roads have been stripped of all brush and maintained in a thick grass cover.

Grass Cover

Experience has shown that a grass cover alone is not always satisfactory. Weeds are still a problem, and grass is often an inadequate barrier against the re-establishment of trees which eventually entangle power and communication lines, and create road-icing hazards.

Selective brush management is no more expensive than maintaining grass right-of-ways, and may actually be less expensive in the long run. It also has several advantages.

Desirable shrub species prevent tall-growing trees and shrubs from establishing themselves; low-growing shrubs provide food and cover for wildlife, songbirds and pollinating insects; shrubs and vines reduce soil erosion, and noxious weeds are controlled by selective spraying, and will eventually be shaded out by the shrubs.

The plan contradicts established ideas of roadside management. But where people have taken time to understand and evaluate it, they have accepted it, say Ellarson and Doersch. Ellarson and Doersch are members of a working group organized under the Natural Resources Committee of State Agencies. The group has been grappling with the

Swine Breeders Of Outagamie Will Confer

Outagamie County Swine Breeders Association's annual meeting will be Wednesday at the county extension office in the courthouse in Appleton.

Past and future swine sales will be discussed. Officers are Albert Bruins, president; Alois Leisgang, vice president; Oliver Lerum, secretary, Carl Sams, treasurer, and George Cuff and Lester Krahn, directors.

Youth Tours Wood Industries

Phil Everts, route 3, New London, was one of five boys from various parts of Wisconsin participating in the Annual 4-H Woodworking Educational Tour. They toured various industries in Marathon, Menominee and Shawano Counties this week.

The boys were selected for their outstanding work in the 4-H woodworking project.

One of the educational objectives of the tour is to have the 4-H members learn about careers in the fields of construction, wood technology and engineering. In addition the group devoted one evening to a critical analysis of the existing 4-H woodworking project.

20th State Pesticide Conference Scheduled Tuesday in Madison

The 20th annual state Pesticide Conference with Industry will start Tuesday at the Park Motor Inn, Madison. It continues through Thursday.

Problem areas to be discussed are legislation on pesticide use, residue and zero tolerance limits, prevention of contamination, aquatic weed control, control of soil pests and recommendations for 1966.

Further information may be obtained by contacting the county extension or soil conservation offices.

Above Average Water Levels Exist in State

Shallow Frost Depths, Plant Regrowth on Slopes Could Retard Spring Flood Threat

Above average water levels already existing in Wisconsin streams, rivers and reservoirs will not necessarily lead to more floods than usual this spring.

Frost depths and late winter snowfalls will also affect flood possibilities, according to Marvin Beatty, University of Wisconsin soil conservation specialist. High water levels do favor flooding, but shallow frost depth and better than average plant regrowth on slopes may cancel out this potential, says Beatty.

Runoff in Wisconsin's streams and rivers is higher than usual, according to U.S. Geological Survey reports. The high base flow applies even in the north where warm December temperatures have released meltwaters.

Rain Has Seeped Down

Soils are no longer at saturation levels, since some of this fall's rain has already seeped down to the groundwater table.

The soil will be able to take up more water in spring after the frost goes out.

Frost penetration averages two to four inches over most of the state, with some areas reporting less than an inch of frost, according to the Statistical Reporting Service. A year ago we had a belt of deep frost (about 14 inches) in the northern one-third of the state, and six to eight inches in the rest of the state.

Last year cooler temperatures and dry soils in November resulted in deep frost penetration. This year we've had warmer weather, and moist soil which freezes slower than dry soil. The snowcover we have now — if it remains — will retard further frost penetration, and means the frost would go out earlier next spring.

Deep frosts, which prevented spring meltwater from soaking into the soil, were a big factor in floods this past spring, says

Beatty. Heavy late winter and spring snows concentrated a lot of moisture in a small area of the upper Mississippi drainage system. With the thaw a tremendous amount of runoff was released over frozen ground in the area.

Nature will have "Her" way with the frost, the snow and the rain, says Beatty, and in certain drainage basins, which have a history of floods, the steep slopes and narrow valleys will again make floods a likely occurrence.

Floods themselves wouldn't be much of a problem if it weren't for flood plain encroachment. If a farmer's pasture is flooded and he has to fix his fence afterwards, not too many people are affected. But put a concentration of buildings and people in the way of the flood and it's a different story.

USDA Adjusts Class I Price For Region

January Milk Fee For Northeastern Wisconsin $4.30

WASHINGTON — Asst. Sec. of Agr. George L. Mehren has signed an emergency decision issued by the U.S. Department of Agriculture to make upward adjustments in the minimum order Class I prices in the northeastern Wisconsin — Upper Michigan milk orders.

It was the result of the Dec. 9 Green Bay hearing.

For Northeastern Wisconsin, the Class I price for January and February 1966, would be $4.30 plus or minus the supply-demand adjustment, and for the months of March, April, May and June, it would be $4.10 plus or minus the supply-demand adjustment, but in no case can it exceed the November 1965 price of $4.16.

Similar adjustments were recommended for the Michigan Upper Peninsula Order. Prices there will continue to exceed the northeastern Wisconsin market by the following amounts: Zone Ia - 11 cents; Zone I - 21 cents; Zone II - 41 cents.

Assuming that the supply-demand adjustment reduces the prices by the greatest possible amount, this means that dairy-men can expect the following Northeastern Wisconsin Class I prices in 1966:

January, $4.16; February, $4.14; March, $3.90, and $3.86, April-June.

In order for the decision to become effective on Jan. 1, 1966, it must be approved by the necessary two-thirds of the producers in Northeastern Wisconsin and three-fourths in the Michigan U.P. individual handler pool market, either through a polling of the cooperatives or by a referendum.

No myths or mysteries, just the facts

The finest advertising doesn't have a chance unless it is seen or heard. The circulation of an advertisement is vital to its success. And, circulation is people ...not the number of advertisements printed or anticipated or projected.

No advertiser can afford expensive guessing. Positive proof of circulation should be demanded. Vague generalities should be discounted. Charts, formulas, and promises are not readers, and can lead your advertising off sales target.

The actual circulation figures...verified count...of this newspaper are available through the report of the Audit Bureau of Circulations.

Exactly how many units of your advertising are delivered into the hands of paying customers? How much do they pay to see your advertising? Where and how is this advertising being delivered?

This is the type of circulation information that helps keep your advertising-and advertising budget aimed in the right direction. No camouflage, just facts and figures.

ABC FACTS—THE BASIC MEASURES OF CIRCULATION VALUES

Brillion, Seymour Guernsey Herds Are Classified

Registered Guernsey herds, owned by Robert D. Kimball, Seymour, and Robert Stanelle, Brillion, have recently been classified for type by J. McKisick Jeter, Zephyrhills, Fla., official classifier for the American Guernsey Cattle Club.

Complete type analysis of the herds were prepared. It shows that of the 22 Kimball cows classified: 11 very good and 11 desirable. Stanelle's 24 cows were classified 1 very good, 12 desirable and one acceptable.

Results of this work will tell the breeder the strong and weak points in the conformation of the herd. By selecting the better cows and breeding them to sires that transmit good conformation, herd type can be improved.

Six daughters of Kimball's Cayoso View Top Command, were classified: two very good and four desirable. Three daughters of his McDonald Farms Rival Viking were classified: two very good and one desirable. Stanelle's three daughters of Fairlawn Peer's May Royal were classified: two very good and one desirable.

Outagamie County Guernsey Breeders were host to Guernsey dairy project winners from Calumet and Winnebago Counties. Visiting at the Jack Krull farm near Nichols, are from left, Jim Lintner, Chilton;

Protein Stocks Up

High Feed Grain Crop Tonnage to Cut Price

Wisconsin farmers will be getting higher prices for their livestock in 1966 and paying less for feed.

Although the hay production was down 15 per cent due to the winterkill situation, many alfalfa fields recovered this spring and produced better first crops than expected.

Drought reduced the second crop but moisture helped the third crop and an extended season aided a fourth crop or green cutting and pasture.

Animal numbers declined on Wisconsin and Midwestern farms in 1965, pushing hog, beef and sheep prices to present favorable levels, says Vern Schneider, University of Wisconsin agricultural economist. At the same time farmers produced a record tonnage of feed grains on a slightly smaller acreage than in 1964.

The larger feed grain crops, plus a probable increase in supplies of high-protein feeds—especially soybean meal—should result in lower prices for feed grains and high-protein feeds in 1966, says Schneider. This favorable livestock-feed price ratio will encourage farmers to increase feeding rates.

The Wisconsin hay crop has not been as good as in other parts of the nation. Winterkill damage to Wisconsin hay fields caused an unusual amount of damage this year. The Sept. 1 estimate of Wisconsin's hay crop puts it at 15 per cent below average. The national hay crop is 123 million tons—six million tons larger than last year.

In Wisconsin the corn harvest is 21 per cent greater than in 1964, and oat production is up 26 per cent. Nationally the corn crop is 600 million bushels over 1964. The national oat crop is up 80 million bushels.

Although supplies of feed grains and corn are considerably larger than last year, the carryover will not increase drastically, says Schneider. Domestic consumption of feed grains is expected to increase three per cent, and feed grain exports are expected to increase by two million tons. Heavier domestic use and increased exports of corn will hold carryover to within 10 per cent of a year earlier, well below the two-billion bushel carryover of four years ago.

special homesteading program authorized in Hawaii. People of at least 50 per cent native Hawaiian blood are able to claim land grants under this program.

Himself part Hawaiian, Wilson at dinner one evening brought personal greetings from the governor of his state, conveying the message in two languages to the accompaniment of his ukulele.

Dean Myers Attends

Dr. Harold E. Myers, dean of agriculture at the University of Arizona, came from Tucson to visit with the guests. He is well acquainted, he said, with his counterpart, Dean Glenn Pound, and others in agriculture at the University of Wisconsin.

"We have 500 undergraduates and 250 graduates at Arizona," Dean Myers reported. "That's a big gain from 10 years ago, when we had only 25 in the graduate school."

Watershed management, he stated, ranks top in subject interest.

Concern About Water

The dean told of the growing concern about water in Arizona and the Southwest generally. Deep wells for irrigation must go even deeper, and they are hoping to be able to tap the Colorado and other rivers by means of costly pipelines.

Differences in water supply, obviously, is one of the major reasons why farms represented by the SCAP participants range from three to 17,000 acres.

The snow-covered terrain on our mountain tour approaching Flagstaff caused Carlyle Crawford, of Moore, Utah, to remark that it was much like his home base. He runs Herefords, as does his soil supervisor, Lawrence Thorderson, of Cleveland. Crawford said he also does some irrigating for alfalfa.

Because of the rain every day, we did a minimum of walking over the 12,285-acre

Goodyear Farms, but we could see pretty well from the buses. At one stop we sampled the oranges, nigh to harvest, and they were delicious.

Daily Rain

At the Goodyear Aerospace plant the voice of one tour guide sounded familiar to my Wisconsin ear. That's right, said Brian Lynch, he's from La Crosse. He's in consumer relations, has been in Arizona two years, and likes it fine.

As I said, talking was a principal diversion. Most of the remarks and questions relating to Wisconsin concerned our famous milk cows and dairy industry, but there was plenty of interest in the Packers, too.

Regards were conveyed to big Baby Ray, ex-Packer new on the Vanderbilt University coaching staff, by way of Roy Smith, radio man at Nashville, Tenn. He is a good friend of Baby Ray, Roy remarked.

Last Voice

Speaking of conversation, you can imagine the frustration of one of the men from the Great State of Texas. He lost his voice after the first day, and could only whisper!

As you probably heard, Arizona was experiencing an embarrassing siege of wet weather. They were setting new records for rainfall, and it's a wonder that more throats weren't immobilized.

Arizona Cattleman

Litchfield Park, 20 miles west of Phoenix, is the location of The Wigwam, the plush winter resort where we headquartered. Up the road a piece is Cornville, where Frank Gyberg has his spread.

Short, wiry, weather-beaten, Gyberg is caustic outside but 98 per cent heart inside. They say he is one of Arizona's leading cattlemen, but he talks poor. He was one of the 17 men who founded the National Association of Soil and Water Conservation Districts in 1946.

In a short speech at one of our evening bull sessions, Frank explained why he got into the beef business.

Cowboys on Horses

"I started out as a sheep herder," he said, "with a dog, two shotguns and walking shoes. Then I saw those cowboys sitting on their horses, and the horses doing all the work."

Here in Arizona wherever irrigation is available they can grow four lush croppings of alfalfa a year. But on much of his range, Frank told us, he is able to run only six to eight head per section. And a section, remember, is 640 acres.

Quite a different setup was reported by Teofilo Domingo, the conservation award winner from Hawaii. Domingo has a farm of three acres on the Island of Molokai, producing papaya and tomatoes.

Hawaiian Farmer

The Hawaiian farmer was the quiet sort, no doubt feeling himself a stranger. His district supervisor, Elmer A. Wilson, was just the opposite. Tree planting and approved cultivation practices are their principal soil conservation efforts, he stated.

Wilson is an official for the

Adjustment Payments

Participants will receive adjustment payments related to the value of the crops normally produced on the land. They also will be eligible for conservation cost-share payments on the diverted land, and those who agree to permit free public access for fishing, hunting, hiking, and trapping in accordance with appropriate state and federal regulations, may get an additional per-acre payment.

A national wildlife advisory board will be named to recommend the most effective procedures for expanded use of surplus crop acreage in fostering wildlife and increasing hunting and fishing recreational opportunities.

Farms which have been under the same ownership for three years prior to the agreement period are eligible for the program. Exceptions to this general rule are farms which have changed ownership by will or succession due to the previous owner's death, and farms which for three years prior to the agreement have been under the control of the person who will control it for the full period of the agreement.

The law also permits farms with ownership changes as late as Dec. 31, 1964, to participate under certain circumstances.

Farmers who participate will receive payments based on the past use and the productivity of the land. For land that would otherwise produce wheat, corn, grain, sorghum, or barley the annual payment per acre will be 40 per cent of the county price-support loan rate times the farm yield for the crop.

After placing all of his acreage of one or more of the above surplus crops in the program, the farmer may offer other cropland. Rates will range nationally from $3-$7 an acre.

All of the land taken out of production under the program will be put to conservation uses. Wildlife plantings and vegetative cover assistance will be authorized for preserving open space and natural beauty. Other practices authorized for cost-share assistance fall within the general category of preventing air and water pollution and measures to provide better outdoor recreation.

It may help state and local government agencies acquire cropland for non-farm uses such as preservation of open spaces and natural beauty, wildlife habitat and recreation, and the prevention of air and water pollution. The program may also share with these agencies the cost of establishing these practices on the cropland acquired.

County Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Committees will administer the program. Full details on how the program applies to an individual farm will be available in ASCS County Offices by mid-January.

Holstein Men To be Feted At Meeting

BLACK CREEK — Recognition awards for top breeders will be given at the annual meeting of the Outagamie County Holstein Breeders Association at Romy's Nitingale south of here.

Norman Rasmussen, state association secretary, will report on state activities. Zane Atkins, new state association fieldman, will make his first appearance in the county.

Tests Show No Big Pesticide Level on Land

Study Conducted on Extensively Used Mississippi Delta

WASHINGTON (AP) — Agriculture Department scientists have announced results of pilot monitoring of areas of the country where pesticides are used most extensively.

Results so far indicate, an announcement said, that no progressive buildup of any great magnitude of organic pesticides in soil, sediment and water in the Mississippi River delta—an area with a long history of heavy pesticide use.

The pilot studies were made after heavy loss of fish in the lower Mississippi River. Some blamed agriculture pesticides.

3,000 Samples

More than 3,000 samples of material were analyzed during the monitoring program of the Mississippi delta. The department said levels of pesticide residue were determined in soils, water, crops, livestock and beneficial insects as well as fish and land animals.

The report said that pesticide levels found in test samples were generally less than one per cent of the safe legal tolerance and that many of the most commonly used pesticides were not found at all in the samples.

Consignments Sought For Northeastern Bred Gilt and Boar Sale

CHILTON — Paul Wolske, Kewaunee County Agricultural Agent, has been given the green light to call for consignments for the Northeastern Wisconsin Bred Gilt and Boar sale Feb. 19 at the Calumet Arena here.

Outagamie will hold its sale at Appleton on Saturday, Feb. 12. Fond du Lac usually held its sale on the first Thursday of February. Due to a conflict with the Ramaco Berkshire Sale at Calumet Arena, Fond du Lac breeders are contemplating changing their date.

Moisture Frequent Wood Enemy

Careful Planning Can Halt Decay

BY COURTNEY SCHWERT
Outagamie County 4-H Club Agent

Wood decay is one reason many buildings require repair a few years after they are built. Careful planning and good construction will eliminate it.

Building materials can deteriorate when exposed to adverse weather conditions. Moisture can cause wood to decay, and metal to rust and corrode. Even concrete can crack when saturated with water and frozen.

Decay in wood is caused by a fungus. It attacks the wood when its moisture content is more than 20 per cent. The fungus also requires warm temperatures and air. In most cases you cannot control air and temperature. But controlling the moisture content in wood is a fairly easy and effective way to control decay.

Moisture control also prevents attacks by subterranean termites which require moisture to live. Dry conditions in the building will discourage them.

When building on top of or near the side of a former building, remove all old wood and debris. In some cases you might have to treat the soil with chemicals to prevent a termite buildup.

Wood will usually contain less than 15 per cent moisture when protected from rainfall and moisture condensation. To keep wood at this level, put vapor barriers on the warm side of moisture in the warm air from exterior walls. This will prevent condensing inside the walls. Attic and crawl spaces should also be ventilated. Shields or treated wood will protect wall sills that touch damp floors. Make sure the building has good drainage so water won't collect around the foundation.

To supplement these construction tips, you should regularly inspect wood buildings for signs of decay. Prompt attention will often prevent extensive damage and repairs and assure a longer life for the building.

The low profile, the big capacity, and the clean design of the John Deere 33 Dairy Spreader is just what you have been looking for . . . and its low cost will please you.

With 20-inch wheels, the 33 spreader is only 47 inches high . . . extra low for use with a barn cleaner. The 52 inch. width makes it easier and faster to fill the 33 Spreader with an overhead track manure conveyor. You save time anyway you handle manure.

The 33 Spreader has a combination beater-wide-spread with aggressive diamond-shaped teeth welded to the outer edge of right and left turning spirals. These teeth pull the manure inward and upward so there's no building up or packing in wet or freezing weather.

This 139 bushel spreader is completely PTO powered. It can be unloaded standing still if you prefer to stack your manure instead of spreading during the winter.

Air Pollution Standards Set By Government

Regulations Will
Apply to 1968
Model Automobiles

WASHINGTON (AP) — The government moves closer today to national control of the air polluting materials which spew from cars and light trucks.

Proposed federal standards, to start with 1968 models, are being published in the Federal Register.

Suggested changes can be made during the following 30 days.

Then the Department of Health, Education, and Welfare will make any revisions it deems necessary, and publish the regulations in the Register to take effect immediately.

"With these standards," Welfare Secretary John W. Gardner said, "we will take an important step toward controlling pollution from the nation's greatest single source of air pollution."

Similar Standards
The secretary noted that similar standards already have been adopted in California starting with 1966 vehicles.

But a department statement said air pollution research indicates automotive pollutants contribute to eye and throat irritation and possibly to major respiratory diseases in all parts of the country.

And it said studies also have shown vegetation and property damage attributable to such pollution in 27 states and the District of Columbia.

The federal rules would apply to all gasoline-powered automobiles and light trucks, whether manufactured in or imported into the United States.

They were developed following this year's passage of the clean air act amendments which authorized regulation of vehicle discharges believed a hazard to health or welfare.

Maximum Rate
Among other things, the proposed standards would set maximum allowable rates for the discharge of two major automotive pollutants — hydrocarbons and carbon monoxide. Hydrocarbons are a major ingredient in the formation of smog; carbon monoxide is a lethal gas.

Less stringent standards were developed for smaller engines, including the small imported cars, because they discharge smaller volume of pollutants than the larger engines, the department said.

Gardner warned that stiffer controls will be needed before 1980 when motor vehicles will be so numerous as to make the present standards inadequate.

Intensive Bargaining

Powder Workers Sign Tentative Pact

WASHINGTON (AP) — After four days of intensive bargaining, negotiators in a gunpowder plant strike have reached a tentative settlement that the administration hopes will restore some dwindling ammunition supplies for Viet Nam.

The rebuilding of critical gunpowder stocks could resume after the New Year's weekend if the 4,200 strikers at the Olin Mathieson plant in East Alton, Ill., approve the agreement reached here Thursday night.

Bargaining for the month-long strike was switched to Washington Monday at the request of the Federal Mediation Service.

Chief Federal Mediator William E. Simkin said the tentative agreement was communicated to the White House and Pentagon and "everybody in the administration is gratified at this step."

Sole Manufacturer
The Illinois plant is the sole manufacturer of a special gunpowder used in some rifle bullets, tracer bullets and 20mm cannon shells which the government said were running low during the strike.

But Pentagon spokesmen emphasized that, up to now, there has been no ammunition shortage in Viet Nam.

The agreement was initiated by the three unions involved Thursday night.

Members of the striking AFL-CIO International Association of Machinists — representing most of the strikers — rejected four earlier tentative contracts. But Simkin said he expected the latest offer to be ratified.

The three unions have scheduled votes over the holiday weekend. The other two unions are the AFL-CIO International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers and the Western Employees Trade Council, composed of several bargaining units.

Taft-Hartley Act

The administration had indicated it would resort to a Taft-Hartley Act injunction to halt the strike for 80 days if the latest contract offer were rejected.

Ambassadors Widen U.S. Peace Offensive

WASHINGTON (AP) — Special presidential envoys carried America's Viet Nam peace drive today to France's President Charles de Gaulle, the NATO Council and President Tito of Yugoslavia. India's Prime Minister Lal Bahadur Shastri was next on the calling list.

The only open response from the other side was a defiant call from President Ho Chi Minh of North Viet Nam for the Viet Cong to press on for "new and greater victories."

The special envoys were United Nations Ambassador Arthur Goldberg, in Paris for talks with De Gaulle and a report to a hurriedly called session of the Permanent Council of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization, and Ambassador W. Averell Harriman. Harriman had a date with Tito today following up his conference with Polish leaders in Warsaw Wednesday, and a well informed source said he would be in New Delhi Saturday to see Shastri.

After a meeting with French Foreign Minister Maurice Couve de Murville preliminary to his call on De Gaulle, Goldberg said his mission could not be described "in terms of hope, optimism or pessimism."

As for the question whether he had learned anything from Couve de Murville about possible changes in the French attitude toward Viet Nam, Goldberg suggested that reporters ask the French.

Goldberg was little more communicative after his meeting of an hour and 20 minutes with De Gaulle.

He said he had told the French leader of "President Johnson's earnest desire to seek an early and honorable settlement of the Vietnamese conflict" and asserted that such settlement can be achieved only "at the conference table without prior conditions."

Goldberg said De Gaulle "of course expressed his own view which I will report to President Johnson."

The envoy carried a message from Johnson to De Gaulle but its content was not disclosed.

Goldberg is flying home tonight. Harriman's next move was announced by the U.S. Embassy in New Delhi. The embassy said Harriman will stay only a day or two.

India, along with Poland which Harriman has already visited, and Canada where presidential assistant McGeorge Bundy has been, is a member of the International Control Commission set up in 1954 for Southeast Asia.

Defiant Call

The defiant call from Ho Chi Minh came in a Hanoi broadcast monitored in Tokyo, reporting a message from the North to the Viet Nam National Liberation Front (Viet Cong).

From Moscow came a pledge

by Soviet Premier Alexei N. Kosygin to "continue rendering necessary assistance and support" to North Viet Nam.

The statement was in Kosygin's reply to questions submitted to him in a letter by Kiyoshi Iwamoto, managing editor of Japan's Kyodo News Service.

Kosygin declared full backing for the stand of North Viet Nam and the Viet Cong for settlement of the Viet Nam problem.

Consider Drafting Students

WASHINGTON (AP) — The man-hunting Selective Service agency says it is considering revival of the Korean wartime deferment standards for college students — which made it harder for marginal students to get draft exemptions.

Some 2.2 million students now hold deferments, and are required only to be doing satisfactory work as fulltime students at a properly accredited college or university.

"We're looking at some things that might be done to find less promising students," a Selective Service official said Thursday. "If we need more men...one good place to look is going to be the students."

The Korean War standards were dropped in 1962. Under them, class standing and performance on a Selective Service qualification test were considered before a ruling on draft eligibility was made.

A spokesman said the increasing draft board demands of the Viet Nam war — now responsible for about 40,000 draftees a month — has led Selective Service Director Lewis B. Hershey to summon state draft chiefs to a series of conferences.

Appleton Man Dies in Plane Crash in Alaska

Roger Schuette,
2 Other Air Force
Officers Are Killed

Capt. Roger Schuette, 32, formerly of Appleton, was one of three Air Force captains killed Thursday when a privately owned single engine plane crashed and burned at Elmendorf Air Force base at Anchorage, Alaska.

Killed with him were Capt. William T. Fouché, 31, and Bryon Powelson, 29, of Pittsburgh, Pa.

Capt. Schuette, son of Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Schuette, Milwaukee, formerly of Appleton, was a graduate of Appleton High School and was a career Air Force man. He had served in Viet Nam before being stationed in Alaska.

Cause Unknown
His wife is the former Shirley Campshire, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edward J. Campshire, 731 E. Wisconsin Ave. They have four children.

Schuette and Fouché were pilots with the 5017th Operations Squadron at Elmendorf and Powelson was the squadron's management control officer.

Cause of the crash was not immediately known. Lloyd Schuette was flying to Alaska today to return the body to Wisconsin.

Youth Sentenced For Auto Deaths

WAUKESHA (AP) — A 19-year-old Waterford youth was sentenced to 60 days in jail Thursday for his involvement in an accident in which two persons were killed.

Douglas Schweitzer, pleaded innocent to driving too fast for conditions when the accident occurred Aug. 29. A charge of negligent homicide was dropped at the request of the district attorney's office.

Circuit Judge William E. Gramling also fined Schweitzer $100 and ordered his driver's license revoked for one year.

Killed in the accident on Highway 24 west of Big Bend were Mrs. Lorretta Wetzel, 35, Mukwonago, and Robert Kelly, 19, of Burlington, who was with Schweitzer.

Defy Peace Moves

Reds Blast Barracks Of U. S. Enlisted Men, Lose Propaganda Fight

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP) — The Communists blasted a U.S. enlisted men's barracks and aimed a major New Year's offensive at a provincial capital today but took a propaganda setback with the defection of a Polish diplomat.

The Pole, Anatol Slavinski of Lodz, 25, ran into a Saigon police station this morning and asked for asylum. Other Polish diplomats ran in after him demanding his return but they left sullenly when Vietnamese police turned them down after a shouting match.

Slavinski was assigned to the Polish delegation on the three-nation International Control Commission. The commission is a peacekeeping agency created under the 1954 agreements on Indochina that freed the area from French rule and created North and South Viet Nam. Its other members are India and Canada.

New Show
The Viet Cong gave a new show of their fighting determination on the eighth day of the suspension of U.S. air raids on North Viet Nam and in defiance of the intensive American peace maneuvers abroad.

One American was killed, another was missing and 10 Americans and one Vietnamese guard were wounded in the guerrilla raid on the military compound at Dalat, a mountain resort 145 miles northeast of Saigon. The area had been relatively free of terrorism.

Five guerrillas slipped into Les Ravines billet shortly after midnight and opened fire with small arms and automatic weapons. Before fleeing they exploded two bombs, a military spokesman said.

Cardboard Medal?

Tale of Liar's Liar Wins Title for Texan

BURLINGTON (AP) — Texas, the internationally famous Burlington Liar's Club. It was Connally's first try at the contest. He is a partner in an antique and second hand store at McGregor.

Connally won a year's possession of the club's diamond-studded medal. Would you believe silver? Would you believe cardboard?

Merlin A. Vergens, Juneau, Wis., wrote, "It has been raining so much the past few weeks that yesterday when I went out into the back yard the night-crawlers were hanging themselves on the clothes-line to dry off."

Another whopper, which received honorable mention, was submitted by Robert O. Stroup, Butte, Mont., "I lived in a log cabin up on Wise River a couple winters ago, and it snowed an awful lot. When the weather started to warm up the icicles reached the ground, and lifted the roof off of my cabin."

Sammy Ferguson of Ocean-side, Calif., wrote, "As I mentioned in an earlier letter, Vista, California, has had a long dry spell. It has been so long since Vista had a rainfall that when a few drops of rain did fall last week they had an inch of dust on them."

The contest is sponsored by

World Welcomes New Year

BY JERRY BUCK

The world welcomes the new year tonight with joyous celebration and a prayer for peace. It is a time of merrymakers, resolutions, popping corks — and cannons.

The West Germans will see 1966 in a bang. They are all set to blow up $15 million worth of fireworks, almost 50 per cent more than last year.

According to German folklore, the bangs and flashes of Sylvester (New Year's Eve) are supposed to frighten off demons and evil spirits.

In the Moslem nations the observance of the new year may be somewhat subdued. It comes this year on the sixth day of Ramadan, the Moslem holy month of fasting.

Kissing, Drinking
The Islamic faithful have been warned that kissing and drinking are forbidden.

In New York's Times Square

— a traditional New Year's Eve gathering place — a new $10,000 illuminated digital clock controlled by signals from the U.S. Naval Observatory will time the arrival of 1966.

Along some of the nation's turnpikes, highway patrols prepared big urns of coffee in hope of seeing weary celebrators home safely.

Await Word
And everywhere the world awaited word on President Johnson's efforts to bring the war in Viet Nam to the negotiating table. Johnson has sent diplomatic missions abroad to talk to world leaders.

President and Mrs. Johnson remained at the LBJ Ranch in Texas, where White House press secretary Bill D. Moyers said they have no special plans for the evening.

Chinese Nationalist troops defending the Quemoy islands are under orders not to reply to routine Communist Chinese gunfire for three days starting today.

The Quemoy defense command said the cease-fire is designed "to enable our compa-

triot on the mainland to celebrate the new year and the anniversary Jan. 1 of the founding of the Republic of China in 1912."

Fresh Coffee
Free coffee is being offered to motorists along the Massachusetts, Pennsylvania and New Jersey turnpikes.

And the Burlington, Vt., Free Press is offering for the fifth consecutive year to pay the funeral costs of anyone who plans to drink and drive New Year's Eve. They have to register at the newspaper first.

Traffic patrols across the nation are being beefed up for the holiday weekend.

Taking note of the mild weather forecast, Detroit Director of Traffic William Polkinghorn said:

Roast Lion

Perhaps one way to build up courage to face the new year is to eat some roast lion.

An inn in Plymouth, Mich., is offering roast lion in wine

sauce, with soup and dessert included, at $5.80 as part of its new year's menu.

Robert J. Stremich, co-owner of the restaurant, says roast lion tastes like veal.

Clergymen in Detroit issued warnings about the holiday. The Council of Churches said in a statement: "The excesses of celebrations are not only inappropriate, but they often lead to traffic tragedies and the breakdown of families through dissension."

In Portland, Ore., the Bureau of Health cautioned that the New Year holiday with its breakdown of inhibitions is a health hazard.

It said, with a straight face, that many communicable diseases are spread by kissing. It recommended restraint and selectivity.

And in Times Square, among the maddening crowd will be a few pickets protesting people having fun. They are being called out by an irate, but unidentified, New Yorker who feels the city has enough chaos without turning the place over to a bunch of merrymakers.

3 Candidates File County Treasurer Appointment Bids

Board Expected to Make Choice at January Session

Three persons, including a former Outagamie County Board member, have filed applications for the position of county treasurer. They are the first three applicants.

The $7,100 a year job was left vacant with the death of Raymond L. Bentz on Dec. 16. Bentz had held the job since 1957.

Filing letters of application Wednesday afternoon and this morning with County Clerk Mollie E. Pfeffer were Norman J. Haefs, 53, 426 Robbins St., Seymour; E. J. Burke, 49, 2419 S. Jackson St., Appleton, and Malcolm P. Jeske, 56, 1104 W. Fourth St., Kimberly.

Former Board Member
Haefs, a Seymour realtor, served on the Outagamie County Board two years, representing Seymour's Second Ward. He also served 10 years on the Seymour public library board, nine years on the school board and was Seymour city assessor for four years.

He is a 35-year-resident of the Seymour area.
Burke, a resident of Appleton 20 years, is in the process of closing out business at Appleton Specialty Co., which he sold recently. He was president of the firm.

Jeske is employed as an automobile salesman at Van Stoen Ford Motors, Inc., Appleton. He has lived in the Kimberly area about seven years. This is his first try for a public office.

Majority Vote

The county board is expected to elect a new treasurer at the January meeting. A simple majority vote of board members will put a man in the office. The qualifications of applicants will be reviewed prior to and at the Jan. 1 meeting.

The county treasurer post is filled by election during the fall of every even-numbered year.

12 Waupaca Area Men Are Inducted

WAUPACA — Twelve county men reported for induction at Milwaukee Monday, according to information released by the Selective Service office here this week.

The men will serve two years with the United States Army. Waupaca residents inducted were Richard L. Strebe, Gary B. Johannecht, Rodney J. Pecore, Gerald J. Jorgenson and Gary L. Peterson.

Also reporting were Robert N. Rasmussen Jr., Scandinavia; Ardin R. Thomas Jr. and Frank X. Akey, Jola; Norman C. Facker, Ogdensburg, and Donald J. Rew, Ronald L. Sipiorski and John N. Kroll, Clintonville.

Did Not See Train

Driver of the car, David Hansen, Madison, was treated and released as was his 4½-month-old daughter, Beth Ann.

Police said Hansen stopped for the first of three sets of tracks, did not see the switch engine and proceeded onto the second set of tracks where the collision occurred.

"No one in the car saw the train, no one even hollered," Hansen told police. "I didn't know there were three sets of tracks," he said. He told police he stopped behind two cars and after they proceeded he moved ahead, stopped again, then moved onto the tracks.

Police said the switch engine caught the left side of the car with a front coupling, pushing the vehicle to the edge of the roadway. The coupling, imbedded in the car, undoubtedly kept the car from turning over and inflicting more serious injury to the occupants, police said. The car received extensive damage.

Police said the group had been visiting at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Lester Sebor, 720 Congress Place.

The report said the train was moving south and the Hansen car was approaching from the east.

Clifford Allen, 44, 1175 Jacobson Road, was the engineer, police said.

Lyle Henschel, Marion, retiring worshipful master of Blue Lodge No. 197, Free and Accepted Masons, was presented a plaque by new officers John Schaffer, junior warden; Francis Thompson, worshipful master, both of Clintonville, and Byron Beversdorf, Marion, senior warden. The presentation was made during installation rites at Clintonville's Masonic Temple. (Laib Photo)

OSHKOSH — Anthony Iorio, 21, 106 Ceape Ave., was sentenced to 90 days in the county jail Tuesday after pleading guilty to contributing to the delinquency of minors.

He was arrested Nov. 19 after police found he had purchased intoxicating beverages for two minor boys.

He pleaded guilty to the charge Dec. 2 and was bound over for pre-sentence investigation.

Not Yet Filed
Lester Eiting and Mike Kloepfel also have secured papers for this district but have not yet filed for them.

Others filing papers are incumbents Oscar Kossman, vice-chairman of the present board, for the Town of Chilton, and Harold Schmitz for the Brotherhood district.

A newcomer to politics, Emil Wisner, has filed for District 16 in the City of New Holstein. Incumbent G. J. Hipke had also secured papers for this district.

7 Candidates File for Calumet Board Positions

21 Persons Secure Nomination Papers; Races Shaping Up

CHILTON — Seven persons have filed nomination papers for positions on the Calumet County Board of supervisors, according to Roland E. Miller, county clerk.

This represents only one-third of the 21 persons who have secured papers. Prospective candidates have until 5 p.m. Jan. 25 to file.

One definite contest has emerged in the City of Brillion, where both county board chairman, Louis Huibregtse, and incumbent Clarence A. Pagel have filed papers.

One to Three
The recent reapportionment reduced Brillion's representation from three supervisors to one.

Zeno Endres has filed for District 13 in the City of Chilton. Howard Schuchert also has obtained papers for this district.

Leander Roehrig, Hilbert insurance agent appointed to fill the position left by the resignation of Herman Greve, has filed for District 10, which is the combined Hilbert village and Town of Woodville.

Assessed Value of Property In City Almost Doubled; New Total Set at $16,530,030

CHILTON — Reassessment of real and personal property in the city and normal growth has resulted in a virtual doubling of the city's tax base.

The assessed valuation for 1965 has been set at $16,530,030, an increase of $8,156,300 over 1964's $8,373,730.

However, the new tax base represents 95.72 per cent of the city's equalized valuation, while last year's valuation was only 57.04 per cent of the equalized or true value.

Total real estate value including all land and improvements nearly doubled, rising from $7,099,785 to the current $14,108,600.

Increases $4 Million
Residential value increased $4,380,210 from its 1964 total of $4,148,795 to the new value of $8,529,005.

An increase of $1,114,220 occurred in the value of mercantile property. This figure rose from $1,395,960 to $2,510,180.

The value of manufacturing property jumped from $1,361,500 to $2,664,135, an increase of $1,302,635.

Agricultural property, including 1,075 acres, is now valued at $394,035, an increase of $200,505 from the 1964 value of $193,530.

A total of 195 acres of swamp or wasteland was valued at $8,245. This land was previously included in the agricultural category.

Merchants' Stock
Other personal property included in the assessment roll is merchants stock valued at $672,805, an increase of $255,840 from the 1964 figure of $416,965.

Manufacturers' stock rose from $468,425 to a new value of $1,131,600. A rise of $83,705 occurred in the value of machines, tools and patterns, rising from $150,185 to $233,890.

Furnishings in places of business and industry increased from $159,725 to $271,010. All other personal property was valued at $64,985, an increase from the 1964 value of $47,905.

The current assessment is being used as the tax base to produce a tax levy of $409,117.

Water Levels Of State Rivers Above Average

Official Says This Does Not Indicate Heavy Spring Floods

MADISON (AP) — Wisconsin streams, rivers and reservoirs have above average water levels but this does not indicate more flooding than usual in the spring, Marvin Beatty, University of Wisconsin soil conservationist, reported Tuesday.

"High water levels favor flooding but shallow frost depth and better than average plant regrowth on slopes may cancel out flood potential," he observed.

Soils, he added, are no longer at saturation levels since some of the fall rain has already seeped down to groundwater table. The soil will be able to take up more water in the spring after the frost disappears.

Beatty recalled the deep frosts last spring which prevented water from soaking into the soil, a big factor in flooding. Frost depths now average about two to four inches for most of the state. Last year there was 14 inches in the northern area and six to eight inches in the rest of the state.

"The snowcover we have now — if it remains — will retard further frost penetration, and means the frost will go out earlier next spring," he added.

Tax Commissioner Names A. P. Hubbard To Assistant's Post

MADISON (AP) — A member of the State Tax Department's legal staff, Allan P. Hubbard, was named assistant to Tax Commissioner James R. Morgan Thursday.

This is the first appointment under the department's new management training program. The appointments are on a temporary basis and after a training period the employee returns to his original job.

Hubbard, who has been on the legal staff since 1962, graduated from the University of Wisconsin. He practiced law in Kenosha for five years before joining the state agency.

Struggle for Shotgun Ends in Waupaca Court

John Fritz Admits Reckless Conduct; $200 Fine or 45-Day Jail Term Ordered

WAUPACA — John W. Fritz, 29, route 2, was fined $200 Thursday by Municipal Justice George Whalen after Fritz pleaded guilty of a city police charge of reckless conduct in handling a firearm. Whalen ordered a 45-day jail term if the fine is not paid.

Fritz was arrested early Thursday after he took a shotgun from the trunk of his car and threatened another man with whom he had fought.

The 12-gauge weapon discharged when two bystanders wrestled the gun from Fritz, city police said. No one was injured.

At 1:15 a.m. Patrolman George Meyer said he was called to a restaurant at U. S. 10 and State 22-54 at 1:15 a.m. by a report that a man was running around outside of the restaurant with a gun.

Meyer said by the time police arrived the gun had been taken away from Fritz. According to authorities, Fritz and Charles Dietz, 25, route 4, had been fighting in the parking lot.

The defendant then went to his car, took the gun out and loaded it, police said.

Fritz told authorities he went after the gun after Dietz had struck him with a knife in the right hand.

Three Shotguns
Fritz had three shotguns in his car, each of a different gauge. He said he was taking them to a gunsmith to have them blued.

Fritz was taken to Waupaca Riverside Hospital for treatment of cuts he received in the fight. After treatment he was held in the county jail until his appearance in court.

Police Chief Fred Rasmussen said charges would also be brought against Dietz.

Power Firms Plan $1 Million Electric Line

Would Connect White Clay, Appleton Facilities

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau

MADISON — A plan for the construction and operation of an electric transmission line from the White Clay to the North Appleton substations of the Wisconsin Michigan Power Co. and the affiliated Wisconsin Electric Power Co. has been approved by the state Public Service Commission.

Estimated cost of the 138,000-volt electric transmission line and the necessary operating equipment is $1,034,000, according to the commission.

The new line will serve to connect the northern and southern divisions of the service area of the Wisconsin Michigan Company in this state and in the Upper Peninsula, and will reinforce the power supply to the White Clay area.

The Wisconsin Electric Power Co. now is constructing a major substation at North Appleton along the route of an extra high voltage 345,000 volt transmission line being constructed between Chicago and Minneapolis-St. Paul. The new substation will provide for the transmission of large blocks of electrical power and will provide a point of interconnection between several utilities. The new line also will provide an alternate line of power flow between the northern and southern divisions of the Wisconsin Michigan utility in case of an outage in the power line between Green Bay and Stiles.

Lutheran Services Are Rescheduled At Wittenberg

WITTENBERG — Beginning Sunday, services for the Redeemer Lutheran Congregation will be changed from the schedule of the past four months. The 8:15 a.m. services will be at the College Avenue Church and the 11 a.m. services will be at the Vinal Street Church.

Rev. Myron Haleen will conduct Communion at both services. The new schedule will continue for the next four months. Sunday school classes in both churches will continue to be at 9:30 a.m.

The Redeemer Lutheran Luther Leaguers held a caroling hour Wednesday evening, under the guidance of Rev. and Mrs. Leon Knitt and Rev. and Mrs. Myron Haleen, league counselors. They sang at the Homme Home for the Aging and to shut-ins.

Youth Sentenced to 30 Days in Jail on Misconduct Charge

Dennis G. Lemmens, 18, Circle Acres Trailer Court, Appleton, this morning was sentenced to 30 days in jail after he pleaded guilty of disorderly conduct in connection with damage at Village Lanes, a bowling alley and bar just north of Little Chute, Wednesday night.

Lemmens was in Outagamie County Court Branch 2 on a complaint filed by county police. The youth threw a bar stool and used profane language after the proprietor refused to serve him more beer, the court was told.

The county policeman called to the scene said Lemmens broke two panes of glass in a front door and became abusive on the way to jail.

2 Grand Chute Men Named to Board of AVS

R. T. Hansen, V. J. Baum to Take Posts in January

An employer and an employee from the Town of Grand Chute were named to the Appleton Board of Vocational and Adult Education by the Appleton Board of Education Wednesday.

Robert T. Hansen, 1430 S. Van Dyke Road, vice president and general manager of Scolding Locks, Corp., and Vincent J. Baum, 2904 N. Richmond St., a farmer, will begin serving their terms in January.

With the addition of the two members, the terms of all board members will be increased from four to six years.

The additional members were required by law when the Vocational School district lines were redrawn this summer to include parts of the Towns of Grand Chute, Harrison, Buchanan and Menasha.

In other business, the board approved bills totaling $9,710.

The year end balance was $57,462. Originally it was estimated that the figure would come to $36,000, but state aid, totaling about $14,000 which was expected in March, 1966 was allocated this month.

Because the board was not balled for public improvement work, an extra $7,000 was listed in the balance until January.

County Property Taxes Up, Down In Area Counties

MADISON — Residents of three east central Wisconsin counties will pay lower county property taxes for 1966 budgets, while citizens of six other counties will find their assessments increased.

County property tax levies made in the state for 1966 budgets total $154,447,355, rising $6,553,722 over total county purpose levies for this year.

The figures were released today by the Public Expenditure Survey of Wisconsin, a private nonprofit government research and service agency for state-wide and community tax groups.

Counties reducing levies include Shawano, $53,966; Winnebago, $28,647, and Sheboygan, $20,112.

Increases include Brown, $270,390; Fond du Lac, $254,700; Outagamie, $74,781; Waupaca, $19,047; Calumet, $17,421, and Manitowoc, $14,935.

The reported levies exclude any amounts for state forestry tax, school district loans or items charged back to communities.

Rev. James Bulkley will speak on "Be It Resolved" at the 10:35 a.m. Sunday service. "The Patience of Faith" is the topic for the 7:30 p.m. service.

Catholic Masses - New Year's masses at St. Mary Catholic Church will be on the Sunday schedule, 5, 7, 9:30 and 11:15 a.m. At St. Augustine Catholic Church New Year's masses will be 6, 8 and 11:15 a.m.

On Sunday worshippers at the Trinity Presbyterian Church will hear Rev. James Bowe speak on "The Power of the Unseen." This also will be the winter communion service.

St. Thomas More

Convent Damaged by Ductwork Fire, Smoke

Fire that began in the area of a basement clothes chute about 9:30 a.m. Thursday caused considerable smoke damage throughout St. Thomas More Convent, 1226 E. Pauline St. Flames also damaged the chute, nearby duct work and the ceiling. Appleton firemen, who responded to the alarm with six units, said shortly before noon that the cause of the blaze has not been determined.

Nuns Evacuate

A nun at the convent called the fire department and said flames were coming out of a clothes chute opening on the first floor.

Firemen battled the smoky blaze for about 10 minutes but remained at the scene more than an hour clearing out smoke and cleaning up debris. A booster line was used to put out the flames.

Nuns evacuated the building as soon as the smoke was discovered.

Fire officials said smoke rolled throughout the new building through air ducts.

Joan B. Catlin Leaves Estate Of $5 Million

Judge Orders Distribution to Woman's Heirs

OSHKOSH — A gross estate of more than $5 million was left by the late Joan Clark Catlin, Neenah, who died April 24, 1963, according to papers filed with County Judge Herbert J. Mueller.

Judge Mueller today ordered distribution of the estate to the heirs.

An inventory filed this week with the court indicated that about half of the estate was her interest in a trust set up by her father, the late Charles B. Clark, in which her mother, Mrs. Jessie K. Clark, Neenah, had a life interest. Mrs. Catlin was the remainderman in this trust under the terms of her father's will.

The net amount to be distributed to the heirs is $2,829,391. Included among the deductions from the gross estate is a federal estate tax of $1,897,146. The gross estate was listed at $5,068,255.

Husband's Share

Her husband, John B. Catlin, Neenah, is to receive a share worth $32,500.

The balance of the estate is to be shared by her seven children, either in outright bequests or in trust arrangements which would include the trust created by her father for her.

These children, and the value of the share assigned to them for inheritance tax purposes, are Joanne and Geoffrey Catlin, both of Neenah, who are assigned a $399,858 share each, Christopher Catlin, East Lansing, Mich., a share valued at $399,867, and Marcia Catlin, New York City, Charles B. Catlin, Chicago, Timothy C. Catlin, Neenah, and James K. Catlin, New Haven, Conn., shares worth $399,326 each.

The state inheritance tax was listed at $259,572.

The inventory listed her personal property as including $1,510,114 in Kimberly-Clark Corp. stock plus $2,496,347 in Kimberly-Clark Corp. stock in which she had the remainderman interest under the will of her father which was subject to a life interest granted to her mother.

Return to Punching Bag Is Fracturing Experience for Wallace

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP) — The last time Gov. George A. Wallace of Alabama delivered a hard right to a heavy punching bag was 23 years ago.

The governor, onetime amateur boxing champ, tried it again Thursday in the gym of a hotel — and fractured his right wrist.

"The governor was working out and there was this big punching bag hanging there," said his press aide, Bill Jones. "It was too much to resist."

He was "very stoical about it," according to the house doctor who said Wallace endured considerable pain.

New Year's Eve, 1965

New Year's Eve's hilarity has developed as man seeks to forget the old and the bitter and is ever searching for only the bright and the fair. The idea of being born anew is a base for many religious faiths but it is also inherent in human nature to try to wipe out past errors and begin all over again.

In a way we try to do this every morning. The Biblical order not to let the sun go down upon our wrath comes from this understanding. We all make new plans to begin in the morning or at the beginning of next week or next month, seldom if ever in the middle of a day or a night. New Years is simply an extension of this idea. So we put on silly hats and blow

Supply Bottleneck in Viet Nam

Senator Stennis' preparedness subcommittee is going to take a new look at shortages of war materials in Viet Nam and the transportation bottleneck there which is mainly responsible for those shortages.

The United States has a 9,000-mile supply line to the battlefield in Viet Nam, but it isn't the length of the line which is causing the problem. It's the bottleneck at the end of the line, in the ports of Viet Nam and in the poor transportation system from the ports to the front.

Time Magazine recites that in one recent week 92 ships stood to in Viet Nam's six major ports, but only 40 of them were being unloaded: the rest lay idly at anchor. Some 40 more vessels were being held in the Philippines, Okinawa and Japan awaiting their turn to unload. The average wait for a ship to be unloaded is 22 days at Saigon. 31 at Cam Ranh Bay, and 40 at Da Nang.

The U.S.S. Kimbro set sail twice from the Philippines for Viet Nam with a cargo of rockets, bombs and 175 mm shells, but horns to rejoice that the old year with all our mistakes is going and a new one, pure and fresh and unblemished awaits us all.

The year 1965 ends on a somber note with the ever-increasing tempo of the war in Viet Nam. There is something frightening here as if events have developed in spite of our intentions. And once again we are presented with a brand new year, 1966, to try to make things come out the way we want them to. This time, we say to ourselves, we'll avoid the errors of the past. And even the secret knowledge that we won't doesn't dim the vision.

"Tomorrow to fresh woods and pastures new," is ever the dream on New Year's Eve.

both times was ordered back for lack of dock space. When the supply ship finally made it on the third try it was just in time. Troops were running low on 175 mm ammo.

When the ships are finally unloaded there are further bottlenecks. Warehouse space in the port cities is short. Because of a lack of cold-storage facilities near the troops, 200,000 choice steaks plus mountains of fresh eggs and vegetables are stored in Saigon while most American soldiers eat C rations.

Most of Viet Nam's road and railroad transportation has been put out of commission by the Viet Cong so goods must be moved up the coast in World War II LST's. Currently only 14 LST's are on the job.

Our Defense Department is redoubling its efforts to break this bottleneck. The current target date for blasting the pipeline clear is March, 1966. But it is obvious that there cannot be any greatly increased troop buildup in Viet Nam beyond current levels until more supplies can get through to them.

DiSalle Fights the Death Penalty

The argument against capital punishment has found no stauncher advocate than the former governor of Ohio, Michael DiSalle. It is also quite likely that DiSalle is no longer governor because of his unrelenting stand against his own state's law permitting the death penalty.

DiSalle argues that he and those who agree with him are not visionaries. "Death-penalty abolitionists have never advocated the abolition of punishment. Nor have they denied that certain criminals should be separated permanently from society, nor doubted that some are not capable of being rehabilitated." But, writes DiSalle in his book The Power of Life and Death, "the death penalty solves nothing. It treats symptoms, ignoring the disease, the primary causes of crime. It eliminates the possibility of rehabilitation, thus denying a second chance to the potentially useful citizen. Capital punishment becomes merely a communal expression of vengeance—a debasing passion in any society that calls itself civilized."

In Wisconsin we have little need to belabor the opposition to capital punishment since we do not countenance it nor has there ever been any particular pressure to re-establish the law which existed only a short time in the state. But, despite increasing moves in many states to abolish the death penalty, almost always allowed only for premeditated murder but in some southern states also possible for rape, the United States Congress last summer enacted a special law for those who assassinate major federal officials. It carries the death penalty and can only be regarded as reaction to the murder of President Kennedy. While it can well be argued that striking a fatal blow at the President of the United States or another high official aims at the very basis of our society, the enactment of the death penalty is no more reasonable than for any other crime. There is no evidence that it is a deterrent.

There is a violence apparently growing in America which is both frightening and so far not completely explained. But it has been shown quite definitely, as DiSalle documents, that the death penalty has very little to do with it. Where capital punishment has been abolished, there is no sudden rise in violent crimes. Some criminals have murdered in states where there is a death penalty when they might easily have done the killing across a state line and been faced with life imprisonment. Perhaps the most appalling example of the failure of the death penalty to impress a criminal, DiSalle describes in the case of Charles Justice. Justice was in prison for a smaller offense and managed to figure out a better apparatus for the electric chair to make it certain that the one to be electrocuted would get the full shock. Then Justice, released from prison, went out and killed and was eventually put to death in the very device he had made. Obviously anyone who kills in a fit of passion will not stop to worry about the death penalty. Nor is there any indication that the more cold-blooded are deterred since they simply do not expect to get caught or may be actually seeking their own punishment.

A particularly vicious crime naturally arouses the public against the perpetrator and his head is demanded. But this does justice to no one, most especially a civilized people.

A Fortunate Merger

Culminating months of study, including an extensive survey of what other cities in the country have been doing when it comes to conducting park and recreation programs, a special committee has recommended the merger of the Appleton Park and Recreation Departments.

That such a consolidation has considerable merit and is justified was demonstrated recently by the Park Board and Recreation Commission which indicated the marriage of the two departments would be acceptable, resulting in more efficiency and elimination of overlapping operations.

Looking Backward

100 YEARS AGO

Quoted from the Appleton Crescent for Dec. 31, 1865.

Wherever the American language is read, the first annual Message of President Andrew Johnson will be perused with a care and attention never bestowed upon a similar document from any of his predecessors.

Every noble-hearted Democrat and truly patriotic conservative man in the nation will hail its emphatic utterances with pride and gratulation.

As a defense of the Democratic National Idea of the situation of the late rebellious States: as a clear embodiment of constitutional law, free from cant or verbiage; as a full fronted assertion of popular rights; as a vigorous and incontrovertible definition of National and State Rights—it is masterly and unequivocal.

President Johnson has nobly fulfilled all the expectations of the Democracy, and the confidence reposed in him has not been misplaced. Neither fanatical radicalism, on the one hand, nor watery-eyed fog-ism on the other, can shake or overcome his undoubted patriotism and devotion to the rights and interests of all.

Now let the President demand that those who hold office under him shall be manful supporters of his administration and his policies, or give place to men who will not war upon the nation's best interests by opposing the speedy restoration of peace and harmony between the people of all States.

Space Exploration Enables Us To Take New Look at Our Earth

BY HENRY J. TAYLOR

That was America, 1966, we saw up there in outer space.

In the cosmos the sunlight is violet. The stars do not blink. The sun sits like a jewel in the black velvet sky. It's mass is 332,000 times that of our earth. And there are other suns farther on that are a million times as big as our sun. The were Dr. Edward J. Zeiss, president; D. D. Bailey, vice president, and Dr. Joseph Ruekert, secretary-treasurer.

The annual holiday community program was given that week at the Leeman Congregational Church. Taking part were Beatrice Larsen, Donna Wincentsen, Janet Schroeder, Nancy Nelson, Ruth Gundersen, Luella Strong, Louise Schinke, Jeanette Poole, Amond Olson, Shirley Peterson, Dorothy Olson, Selma Hammond, Tessie Cook, Vera Gundersen, Clarence Larsen. Mrs. John Tickle, Mrs. H. F. Schroeder and the Rev. W. E. Schilling.

"The Religion of the College Student" was the theme of the fourth annual student recognition service at First Methodist Church, Appleton. Twelve students were to take part by Dexter Wolfe, Bernard Kassilke and Robert Bailey the main speakers. Young people who were to assist with the Sunday service included Robert Dettman, Lois Boon, Janet Fullenwider, Helen Lewis and Marjorie Oosterhous. Ushers for the morning were to be Charles Olin Mead, William Fleck, Fred Trezize Jr. and John Huebner.

When a great nation thinks there is no more great work it should do, and that the purpose of its life is to hang on and stay put, the night has come, such a nation dozes off and begins to die.

But there we see the two Gemini craft — the four Americans maneuvering at the edge of the universe.

WHIRLING INTO NEW YEAR

Below all of us are whirling into the new year in the magnificently conducted vehicle we call earth and are being ushered into a new era of advancement, of understanding, and of imagination that will affect the lives of each of us, and of our children's children.

It took a long time to brush aside the curtain which concealed the system of the world and let us discover that our planet itself is almost imperceptible in the vast extent of the solar system, which in turn is only a pin-point in the immensity of space.

Not until 1851 in Paris did Foucault's pendulum supply the first direct method that proved the earth's rotation. In fact, all — yes, all — physical laws still remain inexplicable. We can describe them but we do not know why they are as they are.

Isaac Newton surmised much about this celestial hinterland three centuries ago. Yet that modest genius said, "To myself I seem to be only like a boy playing on some seashore and diverting myself now and then in finding another pebble of knowledge, or a prettier shell than ordinary, while the great ocean of truth remains all undiscovered before me."

On March 28, 1727 England laid his body to rest in Westminster Abbey with all the pomp and ceremony the kingdom could muster. Newton's physics were true, so far as they went, for 300 years — until Einstein's intuitive leap to a new truth left several Newtonian laws largely obsolete.

All the centuries from Galileo to Newton and from Newton to the new year 1966, and all the zones from the man-cradle of Turkey to the plains of Texas, united in the eerie spectacle we saw.

The industry, science, art, geography, commerce and mind of the whole human race were accumulated in this Gemini rendezvous.

What accumulated all this was teamwork. The worker of the miracle was teamwork. It was a hope so extravagant, so shot through with rainbows. Yet it came off. And if in the result we could so magnificently prove the strength of our system, founded on human freedom, what challenge is there in 1966 that we cannot meet?

CHALLENGES ARE CLEAR

Several of these challenges are very clear. At home, our financial stability is threatened. There is a moral crisis as well. The problem of fairness to minorities and equal fairness to the majority continues. We must strive for a more perfect union. There is much that we can do in 1966 to make this land better for all the people.

Abroad, a great Sino-Soviet storm cloud mounts and darkens, and its crimson rim reaches out to suck down the sun. Deep and dark our troubles flow, for we are fighting the fringes of this in Viet Nam. And we are driven deeper and deeper into dis-mays that burst fissures in the rock of our resolutions.

But there have been many other times when great difficulties were stacked against us and we have always somehow pulled through. We will again.

For just as Gemini's 7 and 6 had their difficult rendezvous, so have we a rendezvous with destiny in this nation maintained and cherished from generation to generation for the advancement of the public good and the glory of Almighty God.

Traditional Opposition To Lotteries in State Is Still Very Evident

BY JOHN WYNGAARD

MADISON — The quick snuffing out of a form of tavern bingo devised by an enterprising commercial operator to exploit the amendment of the state anti-lottery law last spring recalls the historic prejudice of this state against lotteries in any form.

Wyngaard

There is now some anxious breast-beating going on in some quarters about the "deception" practiced upon the Wisconsin electorate in the constitutional amendment which was ostensibly designed to clear the way for innocent sales promotion devices without the classical ingredients of the lottery.

That may be, but there was no evidence at the time about such a probability or even possibility. Moreover, it is perfectly clear from the prompt response of the attorney general's office that there remains an active consensus against the legalization of the true lottery, in any form. Beyond much doubt, the local prosecutors and the magistrates will support the construction of the law as offered by the state's principal law office, if there is a disposition to continue the tavern game.

HISTORY

The anti-lottery policy of Wisconsin predates statehood. The Wisconsin constitutional pioneers were as firm in their distaste for gambling as are their descendants holding the policy-making offices of the state today.

Students of Wisconsin public affairs have often encountered the unfortunate fact that the record of the early constitutional history of the state is sketchy and unreliable. Thus there is no way to point specifically to the reasons for the abiding distrust of the lottery idea by the frontier politicians although it is probably plausible to speculate that they were influenced by some of the fraudulent experiences of their time both in this country and abroad.

Yet the bare bones of the history are suggestive enough. As early as 1838 the Territorial Legislature of infant Wisconsin adopted an anti-gambling law which a year later was amended to include lotteries among other forms of gambling games. When the constitutional convention of 1846 was held there was another anti-lottery provision approved, in the form of a resolution that would forever make it illegal for the legislature to authorize any lottery in Wisconsin. That rule was repeated in the document of 1848 which was finally ratified and made effective.

The first session of the new state legislature in 1849 verified the public view of the time by going to the length of adopting a statute forbidding any person from making a wager depending on the outcome or result of any election, under pain of losing his right to vote. That law remains, although it may be guessed that most persons are not familiar with it.

FUTILE CAMPAIGNS

It cannot be denied that during the 1890s and 1940s there was a tendency among law enforcement officers to blink at the anti-lottery laws and to tolerate some games of chance — such as the ubiquitous and notorious slot machines and similar devices of the lakeland resort country.

But enforcement has been rigorous and effective lately, as a consequence of the 1945 anti-gambling act which tied up illegal games with the licensing policy for taverns. When the proprietor of public places realized that the penalty for violation could be as punitive as the loss of his business, the problem evaporated almost overnight.

Doubtless that stronger and more effective enforcement explains the fact that efforts to change the anti-lottery provisions of the constitution have been more numerous during the last decade and a half. There have been such amendments offered in virtually every session lately. Yet it is a significant footnote to the history of the lottery policy that none of them has shown any considerable support. The 1963 amendment involving commercial sales promotions was innocently intended and was accepted on its face.

If it now develops that it can be construed otherwise, which does not seem likely, it requires no gift of prophecy to foretell that the loophole will be closed, as quickly as it is constitutionally possible to do so.

Strictly Personal

Celebrating New Year On Jan. 1 Senseless

BY SYDNEY J. HARRIS

January 1 is a foolish and artificial time to celebrate a "new year." It makes no seasonal sense, and it has no psychological sense — which may be why it has become more of a drunken revelry than a time for reappraisal or renewal or rededication.

Harris

The ancient Romans began their new year in March — hence, such words as September, October, November and December, meaning the 7th, 8th, 9th and 10th months, had a rational meaning.

The Moslem world begins its new year also in the spring — usually in late April, with the precise date fluctuating as our Easter does. The Jews, both ancient and modern, celebrate it in the fall — which, like spring, also makes more seasonal sense than our arbitrary date of January 1.

Anyone in the Western world today who suggested that we change it would be met with horrified objections by the "traditionalists." But the fact is that January 1 has marked the new year in the Christian world for only 200 years or so — and it has absolutely no cultural or genuinely religious significance.

Since the beginning of the Christian Era, the date of New Year's Day has changed five times. It did not become January 1 until 1752, when the reformed, or Gregorian, calendar was adopted in England.

At first, it was celebrated on Christmas Day (which in itself, by the way, was originally celebrated on Jan. 6, not on Dec. 25). Then it was moved to Easter Day. For a time, May 1 was considered as New Year's Day. Then it was changed again to Lady Day, March 25, which date remained the beginning of the civil and legal year for many centuries.

A new year, to have psychological and religious value, should be attuned to the rhythm and course of Nature. It should arrive either in the spring, which is a renewal, or in the fall, which is a decay and promise of rebirth. It should make us keenly aware of our mortality, as part of the endless circle of Nature.

Instead, our New Year's Day is a "civil" holiday in which incivility kills hundreds of drunken drivers and their innocent victims; a "legal" holiday in which taxes and payments and profits and losses are juggled and computed; a holiday of spurious joviality and frantic activity and trivial resolutions and hats and horns and hangovers.

The deeper meaning of a New Year is as lost in this insensate turmoil as the meaning of Christ's Mass is lost in the frenetic spirit of Christmas. And maybe that is the unconscious purpose of all the hoop-la — to forget the very event that is supposed to be remembered.

Here's wishing a Thoughtful New Year to one and all!

Britons Live Longer (In Spite of Weather), Latest Records Show

LONDON (AP) — Life expectancy for a British male is now 68.1 years. For a female it is 74.2 years, the registrar-general's latest reports show. The figures were 67.3 and 72.7 10 years ago for men and women, respectively.

The records also show that the most common causes of death last year were coronary disease and cancer.

Tensions Grow At End of Most Affluent Year

Stock Market Prices Varied Wildly During Excitement of 1965

By SAM DAWSON
AP Business News Analyst
NEW YORK (AP) — The

United States rings out tonight its most prosperous year. Records fell right and left. But problems there were aplenty and at year-end tensions were growing.

There was a lot of excitement in 1965, especially in the stock market, where prices swung widely and trading volume soared. And government and business squared off for some notable showdowns over wages, prices, interest rates, antitrust actions, overseas investments — with signs of bigger battles to come.

Still, 1965 turned out better on the business front than most people expected just a year ago tonight. And all the worries today about the top uncertainty — the course of the Viet Nam war — may make executives wary of adopting fixed patterns for their firms but generally confident that one way or another the 1966 economy as a whole will outdo even the record year now ending.

Soaring GNP
Americans this year produced some $672 billion in goods and services, up from $628.7 billion in 1964. Many think 1966 might see this Gross National Product soar to the $715 billion range.

Personal incomes rose almost steadily all year to a record $540 billion, against $495 billion in 1964. The jobless rate, a major problem last winter, at year-end was down around 4 per cent, lowest level in years. And labor shortages were plaguing many employers needing highly skilled workers.

Business profits kept rising all year to total around $45 billion after taxes, up from $37 billion in 1964. Wage increases averaged around 4.2 per cent, largest in several years, and a faster rate than either prices or productivity were setting.

Gold Loss
The year started out with French President Charles de Gaulle calling for a world monetary system based on gold, and turning in France's surplus dollars for the metal. The U. S. Treasury had one of its sharpest gold losses in years.

So fast were Yankee dollars flowing overseas that President Johnson called on U.S. corporations voluntarily to hold down overseas investments, and on U.S. banks to trim foreign loans and the buying of foreign securities. At year-end these controls, still called voluntary, were being further tightened.

The U.S. government spurred domestic investments and consumer buying by relaxing in February depreciation rules for tax purposes and clipping $1.75 billion off excise tax collections in June, with more coming next month. Business stepped up buying equipment, and consumers kept retail sales mounting. At year-end some government officials were worrying more about blocking the threat of inflation than about stimulating a civilian economy that could conflict with a military one.

Wages Conflict
Government also collided with some industries over its guidelines on wages and prices. The White House monitored the steel wage talks. It talked of releasing tons of aluminum and copper and wheat from its strategic stockpiles, and price hikes in the metals were quickly rescinded. But all through the business world there was uneasiness lest this foreshadowed more controls over wages and prices than did the guidelines by themselves.

A clash over easy money vs. dear money enlivened the final month of the year. The Federal Reserve Board raised basic interest rates, saying it feared the economy would overheat and touch off a boom with inflation. The White House deplored this, saying economic expansion still needed cheaper money and lots of credit.

Record High Market
All of the year's events had their moments of reaction by the stock market. January saw stock prices setting a record high. Domestic and international crises set prices back for a time and then they hit a new high in May only to slide badly through June.

Prices made still higher ground in October, again in November, and after much seeing-sawing managed a record high at Christmas time.

Volume of trading was terrific much of the year, adding to the fears at year-end that speculative forces might be at work — one of the ingredients of past booms and busts.

So the year drew to a close with most Americans prosperous, many nervous, a majority confident, but with almost no one dead sure he had all the answers.

Your Money's Worth

45 Pct. More Drinking Now Than Decade Ago

BY SYLVIA PORTER

With both Christmas and New Year's falling on Saturday this year and with my column running Monday through Friday, I'm among the tiny minority who hasn't had even an extra 10 minutes off during this holiday season. So, to "celebrate" my splendid status,

Porter

I've decided to become part of an even tinier minority: tonight, I'm not going to drink anything stronger than coffee.

45 Per Cent Increase
Not that my asceticism will make a thimbleful of difference to the nation's consumption of liquor on New Year's Eve, 1965 — for you're on a binge that is shattering all records for total alcoholic consumption and for total spending on alcoholic beverages.

By midnight, your consumption of liquor in 1965 will have soared past 290 million gallons, 14 million to 15 million gallons over 1964's all-time peak. Your spending for liquor will have approximated $6.5 billion, an historic record. Your imbibing will have risen about 45 per cent in the past 10 years, almost triple the rise in the total population.

Before dinner you're drinking liquor on the rocks, with water or soda, or in cocktails. During dinner you're drinking a widening variety and volume of wines. After dinner you're drinking brandies and cordials. Any old time you're drinking an ever-increasing amount of beer. You're "eating" more liquor too, for many gourmet dishes demand a liberal dose of alcohol. Your imbibing of vodka is up more than 700 per cent and of scotch more than 130 per cent since the mid-1950s.

Why the Trends? Some of the reasons are obvious, some subtle — and all are fascinating on this alcoholic eve. Specifically:

The Reasons Why
— Prosperity. This is the great factor, of course, for if you didn't have the money to spend on liquor, most of you would slash or eliminate your drinking. An authoritative estimate is that an overwhelming 97 per cent of all families with incomes of $10,000 or more drink.

The surge from farm to city and suburb. In the typical city home on just an ordinary evening the cocktail hour is traditional, and in the typical suburban home the heavy drinking weekend is equally so. Even more taken for granted is the pre-dinner drinking hour when there are guests for dinner.

Whether the trend is spurred by the hurried pace and neuroses of city and suburban life or by the development of social customs or by the ease with which liquor can be bought today or by the desire to copy what is seen on TV or at the movies — or whatever — the fact is that the percentage of families drinking in cities and suburbs far exceeds the percentage who drink in rural regions.

More Leisure Time
— The rising amount of leisure time. The shortening workweek and workday leave much more time free for leisure-time activities — and those definitely include social drinking as well as the usually mentioned sports, music, arts, etc.

— The acceptance of drinking by women. As recently as the end of World War II only slightly more than half of all women adults drank liquor.

— The powerful trends both toward entertaining at home and toward eating out. In the vast majority of cases, a party at home without liquor at least being offered would be unthinkable — and this is particularly so since women drink along with the men. When eating out the custom is to have a cocktail or two before dinner. Then, there is the wet businessmen's lunch.

— The boom in air travel. On a recent weekend trip to Bermuda we took off at 10 a.m. Cocktails were served to most passengers in first class before 11 a.m. which, to me, is drinking indeed!

(P.S. Just writing this has made me thirsty! I suspect I'll set a record of my own this year and break my first paragraph New Year's Eve resolution even before the sun sets).

The department proposes that shooting hours be limited from 5 a.m. to 10 a.m. with a bag limit of one male turkey for the season, and with shooting by shotguns only.

There would be a total of 1,100 permits issued on a random selection basis, 220 of them valid for each of five three-day periods.

Miscellaneous rules would include: A closed season for all other game in the open season zone; prohibiting electronic calls and dogs; a requirement that all turkeys be registered at the Meadow Valley station of the department by 1 p.m. on the day taken; and a requirement for the wearing of colored armbands by each hunter who is granted a shooting permit.

Common Market Crisis Continues

Future Depends on Readiness to Go Along With French Demands

BRUSSELS (AP) — Europe's Common Market spent most of 1965 in a state of crisis brought on by French President de Gaulle's virtual walkout.

He was expected to walk back in again in 1966 — but only after concessions from the other members: West Germany, Italy, Belgium, Holland and Luxembourg. The new year will also show if there are to be any practical consequences of De Gaulle's recent friendly words about Britain. He vetoed Britain's bid for membership three years ago.

There has been some talk that if De Gaulle persists in demand-

Turkey Shoot Hearing Set in Juneau County

Restrictions Are Proposed for First Modern Day Hunt

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau

MADISON — The careful restrictions proposed for the first turkey shoot to be held in modern times in Wisconsin are detailed in a conservation commission tentative order that will be aired at a public hearing at the Juneau County courthouse on Jan. 11.

The state game division has recommended to the commission the limited shoot in a 112-square mile area in Juneau and Wood counties during a two-week period starting April 16.

The area has been the center of turkey stocking experiments during the last decade, and field reports have indicated that the flock has grown to a size that makes it feasible to permit a limited harvest. Actual approval has not yet been voted by the commission, however, and apparently will depend on the reactions of the public at the hearing in Mauston.

ing more than the other five will give, Britain may be asked to take the place of France in the organization.

Moving Too Fast
De Gaulle objects that the Common Market is moving too fast toward becoming a super-government — a United States of Europe. He wants it to stay a kind of economic cooperative for subsidizing French farm surpluses, in return for freer access by other member countries to the French market for industrial goods.

The French are asking for two things: 1. A curb on the powers of the Common Market Commission, the executive body pledged to look after the interests of the six-nation area as a whole, uninfluenced by any single government. The commission is due in 1966 to absorb the executives of the European Coal and Steel Community and the European Atomic Energy Community. All three organizations have the same six members.

Want Veto Guaranteed
2. A guarantee that France will not lose its veto over major Common Market decisions. The veto is due to disappear Jan. 1. The other members are ready to "concede" on the second issue. Under the present setup each of the six has a veto and few officials are in any great hurry to give it up.

There is more resistance to De Gaulle when it comes to weakening the commission, whose powers are clearly laid down in the treaty that founded the Common Market. But on this issue, too, there is room to appease De Gaulle.

Some turnover in the commission personnel would be likely in any case because of the fusion of the three executives and the fact that most of the members are coming to the end of their normal terms in office.

De Gaulle's walkout also delayed the Kennedy Round of international trade talks, designed to slash tariffs on industrial goods and ease restrictions on farm trade. In these talks the commission is the single negotiator for the six member nations. Taken together they form the world's most important trading unit.

Boycott Meetings
But with the French boycotting major Common Market meetings, the trade negotiators can get no reply when they ask for new instructions.

The U.S. Congress gave the president authority to start the talks, but to conduct them only until mid-1967. Experts say there is plenty of time still to finish by then, complex though the issues are. But if the Common Market crisis goes on well into 1966 this may no longer be the case.

In May the Common Market and other countries submitted proposals for improving trade in grain, the most important farm product. But when it came time in September for proposals on other farm items, the crisis was on and the Common Market had no offers to make.

Much of the Common Market's work is done by the commission and its employees. It goes on normally, and the French are still members. On Jan. 1, for example, tariffs within the area were to drop another 10 per cent, in accordance with long-standing decisions. The new slash will reduce customs duties among the six nations to only 20 per cent of what they were in 1957.

Business continued excellent throughout the area in 1965. Italy was the only one of the six countries with a considerable number of unemployed — about 1,200,000 registered. Economists were worried because West Germany, after years of trade surplus, was beginning to import more than it could pay for.

Some businessmen were talking about prospects of a slight recession, but unemployment was still at a fraction of 1 per cent, with eight more jobs available for every West German without one and well over a million foreign workers in the country.

Even though the special SK-12 costs you nothing extra, it can keep your entire fuel system free of the harmful formation of rust, gum, sludge that cause most sudden furnace failures.

Since the fuel pipe in your furnace ends in an opening no bigger than a pin point, even a tiny article of sludge or gum can clog your furnace burner. With SK-12, in Skelly Furnace oil, you can prevent most cases of sudden stoppage due to a clogged nozzle, filter screen or fuel line.

You can obtain Skelly Furnace Oil, with SK-12 additive, from the Jenkel Oil Co., 1201 N. Badger Ave. Phone number of the firm is 9-1144. Emergency service — in case you run out of oil — may be obtained by calling 3-9584.

A good furnace deserves a good fuel to operate at peak efficiency, no matter how low the temperature drops. Call Jenkel Oil for the best. (Adv.)

Chalk Hills Campers Stage Reunion

Last summer's camping experiences at Chalk Hills were rehearsed and plans for next summer discussed by campers at a winter camp reunion Wednesday at Menasha High School.

Girl Scouts from throughout the Fox River Area Council participated in the event from 9:30 a.m. to 4 p.m.

The program for the day included a swimming hour, camp slides and movies, singing and games and visiting with old friends and the staff.

Mrs. Har Id Asmus was chairman, assisted by Mrs. Francis Pratt.

Committee members were Mrs. William Gear, Mrs. Richard Heindl, Mrs. Frank Heckrodt Jr., Mrs. Dan Stommel, Mrs. Robert Kichelski, Mrs. Gerald Nerenhauser and Mrs. Robert Slack.

Shiocton Home of Newlyweds

BEAR CREEK — Miss Wendy Marie Downs and Joseph Edward Johnson were married at 4 p.m. Thursday at St. Mary Catholic Church. The Most Rev. John B. Grellinger, Auxiliary

Mrs. Joseph Johnson

Parents of the couple are Mr. and Mrs. Paul L. Downs and Mr. and Mrs. Russell Johnson, Shiocton.

Miss Margaret Liefer, Wauwatosa, was her cousin's maid of honor. Also attending the bride were Misses Jenny Johnson and Mary Miller, bridesmaids, and Misses Stephanie Downs and Margaret Johnson, junior bridesmaids.

The bridegroom's brother, John Johnson, Oshkosh, was best man. Serving as groomsmen were Ryan Downs and Thomas Johnson. James Puls and Patrick McKeen were ushers.

The newlyweds greeted guests at the Rainbow Supper Club, New London. After a honeymoon in Chicago, Mr. and Mrs. Johnson will live in Shiocton.

Mrs. Johnson attended Wisconsin State University-Oshkosh. Her husband, who studied at Outagamie County Teachers' College, is employed at Hortonville Manufacturing Co.

Imaginative Dash

Leftover cooked beef makes a good salad when it is combined with soaked mixed vegetables and mayonnaise. Use leftover cooked vegetables if they are on hand, or cook a package of frozen mixed vegetables for this salad.

To vary the flavor in a cheese sauce, sometimes add grated Parmesan cheese instead of the usual cheddar.

Praesidia Presidents Help Set European Pilgrimage

Nine Presidents of the Praesidia of the Green Bay Curia, widely known Legion of Mary organization of the Roman Catholic Church, are cooperating with the Very Rev. Monsignor Joseph E. Michalski, pastor, Saint Patrick, St. Louis, in organizing the Legion of Mary Pilgrimage to Ireland, Rome, and the Shrine of Lourdes in France, scheduled to depart next July. Monsignor Michalski, in announcing this pilgrimage, stated that both members of the Legion of Mary and others could register.

The nine Presidents are: Mrs. Bernard Blob and Mrs. John Abitz, Appleton; Miss Mary Ellen Larscheid, Green Bay; Miss Patricia Van Hout and Mrs. Agnes Neit, Kimberly; Mrs. Lucille Nelson, Marinette; Bruno Haas, Menasha; Miss Donna Kessler, Manitowoc, and Miss Rose M. Dux, Oshkosh.

One group will depart from New York on July 7 aboard the Sylvania of the Cunard Line and arrive at Cobh, Ireland, on July 14. Arrangements have been made for those traveling by air to depart on an Irish International Airlines jet from New York on July 12, and to arrive in Shannon on the morning of July 13.

Meet in Shannon

The two groups will assemble in Shannon. They will have a tour of Ireland, including visits to Bunratty Castle for the famous mediaeval banquet, and historic Galway before arriving in Dublin, Ireland's capital city. The Legionaries will meet with Dublin Concilium Officers and Irish Legionaries to learn of the works of the Legion Apostolate.

Following the final meeting in Dublin, the pilgrimage will continue to the Continent. The first stop will be at the famous Shrine of Our Lady of Lourdes in France. The pilgrimage group will participate in devotions, including Holy Mass at the Miraculous Grotto, Procession of the Blessed Sacrament, and Candlelight Procession of thousands of pilgrims, all to be climaxed by the Rosary and Benediction.

The next stop will be Rome, the Eternal City, one of the highlights of the trip. It is expected that an Audience with His Holiness, Pope Paul VI, will take place, also a sightseeing tour of Rome with visits to St. Peter's, the Sistine Chapel, St. John Lateran, St. Paul Outside-the-Walls, St. Mary Major, the Colosseum, the Pantheon, the Baths of Caracalla, the Forum and the historic Appian Way.

Members of Monsignor Michalski's group will be in Rome for four days. After an extended

Parents Tell Engagement Of Daughter

NEENAH — Mr. and Mrs. Ervin Kohn, route 1, Tigerton, have announced the engagement of their daughter, Marion, 32½, Third St., to Gary Erdmann.

The bridegroom-elect is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Anthony Erdmann, route 1, Oshkosh.

Miss Kohn and Mr. Erdmann are employed by Wisconsin Tissue Mills, Menasha.

An April 16 wedding is planned.

Wedding Promises Exchanged

OSHKOSH — Miss Mary McChain became the bride of Jack Kugler, 579A Bowen St., in a 7:30 p.m. ceremony Thursday at Algoma Blvd. Methodist Church. The Rev. Keith Farham officiated at the double ring nuptial rite.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Rolland McChain, route 2, Menasha. The bridegroom is the son of Mrs. Burton Kugler, 14 W. Irving St., and the late Mr. Kugler.

Miss Jill Kugler, the bridegroom's sister, attended as maid of honor. Duties of the best man were performed by Thomas McChain, the bride's brother.

The couple greeted guests at a reception at Hesser's Supper Club.

Both attended Wisconsin State University-Oshkosh and are employed by Rockwell-Standard Corp.

Party for River Drive Children

The children of River Drive home, 304 River Drive, marked the holiday in neighborhood fashion on their own party. Children took a caroling trek again this year. The recent event began in late afternoon, singing their favorites at every home they passed. While the meeting for hot chocolate and cookies at the Willard Mills little ones met at the John Butler home, 46 River Drive, to have a long and cozy chat with Santa.

Everyone met again at the neighborhood tree, where Santa presented each with a gift.

Summer Rite Planned by Engaged Pair

NEENAH — Mr. and Mrs. Norman E. Jansen, 459 Hawthorne St., have announced the engagement of their daughter, Jennifer, to Robert A. Appert.

The bridegroom-elect is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Richard J. Appert, 1024 Hunt Ave.

Miss Jansen will be graduated from Perry Norman School, Boston, Mass., in June. Her fiancé is a senior at the University of Wisconsin, Madison.

Cupid Grounded By Stewardesses

By JAMES CALOGERO

BOSTON (AP) — An authority on the subject says the romantic notion that airline stewardesses meet and marry hard some passengers is one of the great fairy tales of our time.

Miss Helen Chase, one of the country's most experienced stewardesses, says romance rarely comes to bud above the clouds.

The male passenger who thinks his airline ticket is a pass to woo the pretty stewardess has the odds stacked against him.

Too Busy

"The airline stewardess," says Miss Chase, "is just too busy to pay personal notice to any particular passenger."

Miss Chase — red haired and attractive — has been a (North-east Airlines) stewardess for 20 years. She easily could lie about her age of 46 and get away with it.

"I've logged three million miles and 19,000 hours in the air, and yet," she says, "I can easily count the number of times I've received sincere invitations from male passengers."

"I've known hundreds of girls on airlines throughout the country and their experience about

Your Problems

Gesture, Not Content, Gives Letters From Home Meaning

BY ANN LANDERS

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Every college student away from home will thank you if you print this letter.

Mail is very important to us, and we know it is important to our parents, too. But what do they write about?

Here is a sample of a letter I house about three times a week ever since the operation. I wonder if this sort of attention is necessary. Most patients go to the doctor's office for post-operative check-ups, don't they?

I am not saying that anything is going on but I have discussed this with a few friends and it seems to us that these two are letting themselves in for a lot of unnecessary gossip. Should I talk to my neighbor and tell her she is injuring the doctor's reputation as well as her own?

Person Who Means Well
Dear Person: I'm all for cutting down on gossip and I suggest you start with yourself. Mind your own business and get your jollies some other way.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: My husband and I have not gone anywhere by ourselves since 1961. We were married seven years before our twin sons were born and of course we were thrilled. But when a mother stays home with two active boys, night and day for three years, she gets over the thrill. At least I did.

My husband will not allow me to hire a sitter. He says people who have children should stay home or take their children with them. He is forever showing me articles about kids who are delinquent because their parents didn't pay enough attention to them.

Please give me a hand before I wind up on the funny farm. — On The Edge

Dear Edge: Parents need an occasional evening away from their children and the kids need it, too. (Once every two weeks is not too often.)

If your boys don't learn to adjust to people outside the family they'll have difficulty when they start school.

Tell your husband for me that one extreme is as bad as the other.

When necking becomes petting, watch out! To learn how the smart girl keeps both her dignity and her boy friend, send for Ann Landers' booklet, "Necking and Petting — And How Far To Go," enclosing your request 25 cents in coin and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Susan Vils Plans to Wed In August

KAUKAUNA — Miss Susan M. Vils, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Gerald E. Vils, 423 W.

received yesterday: "Aunt Edna had a pain in her side last night. She thought it was appendicitis but it passed over. Uncle Gordie brought us six dozen fresh eggs from his farm this morning. The eggs he brings us are very small and rather brownish in color. I like the white eggs best but he never brings us those. The bulb in the street light by our house burned out. I wonder how long it will take the city to notice it."

This is news? We appreciate any support you can give us. — Tired Of Reading Nothing.

Dear Nothing: So what do you want? The inside word from the Pentagon, the State Department and the White House?

A letter from home lets you know your folks are thinking about you. If your mother happens to be a Willa Cather, you're lucky, but most mothers are just ordinary people who write as best they can. So be grateful and quit beefing.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: A neighbor had surgery six weeks ago. It was nothing serious but she made a big thing of it.

This woman's doctor is a family man and well thought of in the community. His car has been parked in front of her fresh print, and look forward to compliments from all.

Questions, Answers

Q. Please tell me how to mend my husband's socks without having them look awful. I always have trouble with sewing them so they won't hurt his feet. — MRS. S. B.

A. First, you must always darn a sock. To do this, leave the hole in its rounded shape.

Pat Scott

Trim away the ragged edges. With a darning work with small stitches back and forth across the hole and far enough into the fabric around the hole to strengthen the weak spot. Darn in one direction, then the other, weaving in and out to make a plain, smooth weave. Use darning yarn to do this, and only as many strands as necessary to match the weight of the sock. The yarn weight is very important. It will look, feel and wear better if it matches that of the sock. (See illustration.)

Q. I am going to make a dress of gold metallic cloth. How do you press this type of fabric? — MISS D. M.

A. The iron should be set for moderately hot. First test a scrap of fabric before working on the garment itself. Press lightly, using NO moisture, and using a press cloth. If necessary to press on the right side of the dress, use tissue paper over the fabric.

Q. Do I have to buy extra yardage for stripe material if not designated on pattern? — MRS. R. M.

A. You don't have to for pin stripes. However, for wide stripes, I suggest you buy 1/4 to 1/2 yard or more extra.

Q. What can I use for a waistline stay to keep from stretching? — MISS L. O.

A. Use seam tape or gros-grain ribbon and hand tack it to seams and darts at the waistline.

Q. When they say "clip the seam allowance" what do they mean? — MRS. O. H.

A. This means taking a short snip in the seam allowance to within 1/4 inch of the stitching.

Q. It is necessary for me to alter all patterns (and I use your booklet). If I use the same pattern brand, is it necessary to check the measurements of each pattern first? — MRS. L. L.

A. Yes. Different styles allow for different amounts of ease even if the patterns are made by the same pattern company.

Patricia Scott's new booklet, How to Handle Special Fabrics, will save time and trouble. It also includes a needle and thread chart. For a copy of this booklet, write to Patricia Scott, in care of The Post-Crescent, enclosing a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope and 25 cents.

Inspires the Chef

A little cooked spinach leftover? Add it to canned cream of potato soup. Nice for lunch.

Three-quarters cup of chopped cranberries and a teaspoon or so of grated orange rind may be added to a package of nut-bread mix, to vary it. Just stir the cranberries and orange rind into the batter.

Deb Parties Can be Dull

BY KATHE DIEBEL

NEW YORK (AP) — For some, debutante's ball can be the most exciting night in a young girl's life. But to the pros on the deb circuit it sometimes gets to be old hat.

Sixty girls from 11 countries and the United States were presented to society last Wednesday night at the International Debutante Ball at the Astor Hotel.

About half of these white-gowned and kid-gloved teen-agers had made the scene before, according to one informed observer.

Helen Dale Biggs, who had previously come out at Newport, R.I., and Tyler, Tex., said she attended the International "to see the splendor of the place and have a good time."

"I've never seen the Astor," the Veranda, Tex., beauty said.

There are even veteran escorts, seemingly.

The darkly handsome boy friend of one deb commented: "She's come out three or four times and I have been an escort for seven or eight of these, so it's all pretty much routine."

"It's such a good charity," said one mother speaking of the Kidney Foundation which sponsors the ball, "and you can have the most fun here." Her daughter had attended four others.

But for the first-timers, which included most of the foreign contingent, it was a thrilling time in the baroque pink and silver ballroom of the Astor.

"I loved it," said Frauke Boie, daughter of the senior defense and air attaché of the West German embassy, Brig. Gen. Werner Boie.

A certain amount of informality prevailed. The spirited bunch of Texas girls, seven in all, jazzed up the receiving line by introducing each other as "Hortense Blotch from Austin." About 10 persons shook hands down the Texas line without realizing what the Lone Star states were giggling about.

Members of the Memorial Presbyterian Guild will meet at 1:30 p.m. Jan. 18 in the church guild room. Mrs. Carroll McEathron will preside and Mrs. Edward Jacoby will give the devotion. A discussion will follow the film, "A Question of Recognition." Hostesses for the coffee hour will be Mmes. Dale Williams, E. B. Brownell and Roy Kabella.

Guild Circles scheduling meetings Tuesday are the Theology Group, the Book and Periodical Study Group, the Bible Study Group, the Fellowship Circle, the Christian Family Living Group and the Social Action Circle.

"The Acts of God" will be studied at 9:30 a.m. by the Theology Group at the home of Mrs. Clifford Pierson.

The Book and Periodical Study Group will discuss "Tangled World," by Roger Shinn, at 1:30 p.m. at the home of Mrs. John Ringleb.

Mrs. Donald Kunstman will lead the summary of the Bible study of Jonah at 1:30 p.m. at the home of Miss Edith Reichegyl.

Mrs. Edward Jacoby will be hostess for the Fellowship Circle meeting at 1:30 p.m.

The Christian Family Living Group will meet at 8 p.m. at the home of Mrs. Joseph Offenstien to discuss "Opening the Doors for God." Discussion leader is Mrs. Steven Langlais.

A program on "Health and Aging" is planned by the Social Action Circle at 8 p.m. at the home of Miss Barbara Trachte.

West's overall of two clubs is known in the trade as the Michaels Cue Bid, devised by Miami expert Mike Michaels to show a weak two-suiter in the major suits. The rest of the bidding is normal, and South gets to three notrump.

If South refuses to capture the queen of hearts at the first trick, East continues with the nine of hearts to force out the king. West gets in with the ace of diamonds to lead the jack of hearts to the ace. And West gets in with the ace of spades in time to defeat the contract with the rest of the hearts.

Must Win

South must win the first heart trick, knowing that West has not opened the four of hearts from a suit headed by J-10-9. Hence East surely started with the doubleton Q-10 or Q-9 of hearts.

South leads diamonds to force out the ace. West cannot afford to lead the jack of hearts since this would give South a third heart trick. If West leads a low heart, East plays the nine — and this time South refuses the trick.

East cannot return another heart, and South gains time. No matter what East does, South can knock out the ace of spades while he still has the ace of hearts to control the dangerous suit. South makes ten tricks instead of only eight — an important difference when the contract calls for nine tricks.

A New Year Is Personal . . .

As we hang up our new calendars and wind up another year, we are concerned with "how we did" in this year just ending. If it wasn't what we had hoped, there's the spanking new year in which to try to do better.

In our case it also means opportunity to make new friends. With us, every encounter is a personal thing. We want people who come to us for a purchase, for service to feel that their best interests were kept in mind. That's how we keep friends—year after year.

Teamsters Approve Tentative Contract With Appleton

Union Local Okays 1966 Pact; Must be Accepted by Council

The tentative 1966 contract agreed to by the Appleton personnel committee and Teamsters Local 563 was accepted Thursday at a meeting of union members.

A letter advising that unionized employees in the Department of Public Works had voted to accept the proposed contract for the coming year was sent today to Mayor Clarence Mitchell and Max Hensel, personnel committee chairman.

The personnel committee and Teamsters arrived at agreement earlier in the week following an eight-hour meeting conducted by a mediator from the Wisconsin Employment Relations Board (WERB).

Sends Letter

Robert W. Schlieve, secretary-treasurer for Local 563, sent the letter to city officials following the union meeting at the labor hall.

The tentative contract calls for a 14-cent per hour wage increase for hourly paid employees in the Department of Public Works. They received no pay increase last year.

The contract, covering Jan. 1, 1966 to Dec. 31, 1966, does not take effect until approved by the city council, which will meet Wednesday night.

The personnel committee acts as the bargaining representative for the council in dealing with labor unions and employee associations.

"Majority Vote"

In his letter to Mitchell and Hensel, Schlieve said the proposed contract was accepted by a majority vote of the employees in the bargaining unit.

"We will prepare the contracts that are necessary for signature," Schlieve advised. He inquired who would execute the agreement on the part of the city so the names could be included in the contract.

The settlement of the contract dispute, announced by Arthur Kirby, mediator of the WERB, culminated several months of negotiations.

The majority on the personnel committee intends to recommend that the council approve the proposed contract. Kirby indicated it represented a compromise on the part of both parties.

Assemblymen Named To Visit Institutions

MADISON (AP)—A committee of five assemblymen to visit state institutions was announced Thursday by Assembly Speaker Robert Huber, D-West Allis.

Democrats appointed were Ben Riehle of Athens, Bruce Pelouquin of Chippewa Falls, Cletus VanderPerren of Green Bay, William Rogers of Kaukauna and Daniel Hannia of Milwaukee. The committee also includes five senators.

Power Firms Plan $1 Million Electric Line

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau

MADISON — A plan for the construction and operation of an electric transmission line from the White Clay to the North Appleton substations of the Wisconsin Michigan Power Co. and the affiliated Wisconsin Electric Power Co. has been approved by the state Public Service Commission.

Estimated cost of the 138,000-volt electric transmission line and the necessary operating equipment is $1,034,000, according to the commission.

The new line will serve to connect the northern and southern divisions of the service area of the Wisconsin Michigan Company in this state and in the Upper Peninsula, and will reinforce the power supply to the White Clay area.

The Wisconsin Electric Power Co. now is constructing a major substation at North Appleton along the route of an extra high voltage 345,000 volt transmission line being constructed between Chicago and Minneapolis-St. Paul. The new substation will provide for the transmission of large blocks of electrical power and will provide a point of interconnection between several utilities. The new line also will provide an alternate line of power flow between the northern and southern divisions of the Wisconsin Michigan utility in case of an outage in the power line between Green Bay and Stiles.

Tax Commissioner Names A. P. Hubbard To Assistant's Post

MADISON (AP)—A member of the State Tax Department's legal staff, Allan P. Hubbard, was named assistant to Tax Commissioner James R. Morgan Thursday.

This is the first appointment under the department's new management training program. The appointments are on a temporary basis and after a training period the employee returns to his original job.

Hubbard, who has been on the legal staff since 1962, graduated from the University of Wisconsin. He practiced law in Kenosha for five years before joining the state agency.

Susie the Dog and Fluffy the cat, both pets of Miss Margaret Verkuilen, 135 W. Main St., Little Chute, are all set to celebrate the New Year, complete with party hats and festoons. Who says a dog and cat can't get along?

Preliminary Razing Begins On Part of Olympia Building

Work on Retson Part Starts As Area Smoke Damage Is Surveyed

Preliminary razing work began this morning on half of the Olympia Building which was destroyed by fire Tuesday evening.

The Retson brothers, owners of the half of the building housing Retson's Sandwich Shop, a tavern and several upstairs offices and apartments, said this morning their insurance company has given the "go ahead" to raze their portion of the structure.

Indications are construction "will start anew from the ground floor up," they said. They termed the burned out building a "complete loss," insurance covered about half of the loss it was learned.

Wreckers at Scene

An official of an Appleton moving and wrecking firm at the scene said the interior of the burned out three-story structure will be combed today in an attempt to determine if anything can be salvaged.

A large crane and long flatbed truck are being used and half of the eastbound lane in part of the 100 block on W. College Avenue is blocked off for workmen.

Mrs. George Katsoulas, owner of the other half of the 50-year-old Olympia Building, including the part housing the Rose Shop and offices, said today that although she plans to raze her half of the structure, it is not known yet just when work can be started.

Survey Loss

Officials of the Bretschneider Furniture Co. are meeting with insurance officials today to determine the extent of their loss in the Tuesday night fire that began near a deep fryer in Retson's restaurant.

The Bretschneider building, located just west of the Olympia Building, received "extensive smoke damage on the third and fourth floor" where furniture was kept, it was learned.

Smoke damage also was reported to the 11-story Zuelke Building just to the east and to the Jack Stewart Shoe Store, on the first floor of the Zuelke Building.

Must Redecorate

The manager of the Stewart store said this morning the entire interior of the store will have to be redecorated, but added that stock damage was minor in that most of the merchandise was in boxes.

"The greasy smoke film just started to settle this morning and there seems to be no way to get rid of it except by redecorating," the manager said.

There has been no loss figure given on merchandise in the Rose Shop, on the first floor of the Olympia Building, but it was reported earlier that nearly the entire stock was ruined by fire, smoke and water.

Files Lost in Fire

William and David Geenen, attorneys who occupied a second floor office in the Olympia Building, said their entire library and about half of their files were lost in the fire. "The files cannot be replaced and it is difficult to estimate the value of the library," they said.

Also hard hit by the blaze were R. P. Groh, president of the city council, who had an insurance office on the second floor, and Gordon Hawley who operated a stamp dealership in the Olympia Building.

The letter from company president Dr. H. P. Dixon is a welcome to the "greatest paper producing area in the U.S., the Fox River Valley."

"We hope that you or some member of your family will find good use for this memento. We would also like to extend our best wishes for the new year (except when you are playing the Packers)."

Man Bruises Foot in Village Accident

LITTLE CHUTE — Marvin Evers, 39, 321 Johnson Ave., Little Chute, suffered a bruised foot, was treated by a physician and released after being struck by a car driven by James Brown, 19, 218 Maria St., Kaukauna, about 7 p.m. Wednesday.

According to police, Evers was lighting a cigarette and stepped into the intersection at Main Street and Grand Avenue without noticing the Brown vehicle traveling west on Main.

Twin City Office Head Selected for Combined Operation

The appointment of A. P. Engbreton, manager of the Wisconsin State Employment Service (WSES) office in Neenah-Menasha for nearly 22 years, to head the combined Appleton - Neenah - Menasha office, was announced today at Madison by Alexander A. Holly, head of field operations for the WSES.

Engbreton will succeed Fred Gehrke, whose retirement as manager of the Appleton office after 32 years in the service becomes effective Monday.

Both the Appleton office at 427 W. College Ave. and the Neenah-Menasha office at 120 E. Wisconsin Ave., Neenah, will continue to operate and Engbreton will coordinate activities of the two offices. The Appleton-Neenah - Menasha community really constitutes one labor market, Holly indicated.

Engbreton has been with the WSES for 29 years, starting as an interviewer in Milwaukee and later at Watertown. He was named manager of the Watertown office in 1942 and was transferred to head the Neenah-Menasha office Feb. 1, 1944.

Village Parishes Set Services to Mark New Year

KIMBERLY — Catholic churches in the Fox villages have scheduled masses on New Year's the same as on Sunday while a special New Year's eve service has been set at Mount Calvary Lutheran Church, Kimberly.

The latter will hold a 6:30 p.m. service today and a 9:45 a.m. service Saturday, both with holy communion. A message will be delivered by the Rev. Frederic Kosanke, pastor.

Masses at Holy Name of Jesus Church, Kimberly, will be at 4:45, 6:05, 9:30 and 11 a.m. and 12:15 p.m. Saturday. At St. John Catholic Church, Little Chute, masses will be at 5, 6:10, 7:30, 9 and 10:30 a.m. and 12 noon while St. Paul Catholic Church, Combined Locks, will have masses at 7:15, 8:30, 10 and 11:30 a.m. Saturday.

Purse Stolen

Mrs. Chester Van Horn, route 2, Shiocton, an employee at the Montgomery Ward Co., downtown, told Appleton police Thursday that her purse, containing about $48 was stolen after she set it down near an elevator in the store.

Outbreak of Strikes Takes Heavy '65 Toll

Snow, Ice Control Year Ends Like Lamb, Leaves Fund Surplus

The old year began bowing out like a lamb today and left the City of Appleton with a $16,000 surplus in its annual snow and ice control fund.

"We should be in the black without any problem," said Henry Schreve, city finance director.

Fingers Crossed

Public Works Director Robert W. Bues indicated he still had his fingers crossed, noting there were a few hours left before 1966 made its debut.

At the end of 1964 the city had a $36,500 surplus, although the Fox Cities had a severe cold winter.

Weatherman Helpful

When the 1965 snow and ice control budget was prepared, the council cut the figure substantially, but the weatherman still was helpful, resulting in another surplus.

As of Dec. 1 the city had an estimated $19,000 left in the snow control budget and an estimated $2,000 has been spent since then.

Schreve said the surplus would revert to the general fund.

Relations Strained in Fox Cities

Strained labor-management relations in the Fox Cities during 1965 resulted in a turbulent year with an outbreak of strikes taking a heavy economic toll.

Starting with the plumbers' strike in the spring, there was one strike after another in this region.

A spokesman for the Federal Mediation and Conciliation Service district office at Green Bay said 1965 was "one of the most hectic in recent years."

The Wisconsin State Employment Relations Board (WERB) also sent mediators into this region to help parties settle disputes.

40,760 Manhours Lost

It has been estimated by the Wisconsin State Employment Service at Madison that productive time lost — due to strikes and lockouts in Appleton, Neenah and Menasha — amounted to approximately 40,760 man hours.

The unofficial figure came from John B. Hanson, labor market research analyst.

However, the estimate was just for the three cities and does not include surrounding communities where there was considerable labor strife. For example, the 34-day strike at Combined Locks Paper Co. involving 350 employees was not included.

Several Close Calls

James Despins of the Federal Mediation and Conciliation Service said there were also several "close calls" in the Fox Cities in which walkouts were averted by last-minute mediation sessions.

At one Menasha paper firm management was in the process of closing down the plant when an agreement was arrived at, thus avoiding what could have been a major strike.

There were at least 10 strikes in the Fox Cities, plus others in outlying communities, during the past year.

Productive Time Lost

A general estimate on productive time lost due to labor-management disputes would easily exceed the 100,000 man hour total.

Last payroll and management income was in the millions of dollars for the entire year.

Probably the most inconvenient to the general public was the strike against the ready mix and contractor supplier firms throughout the Fox Cities.

Paper Company Wishes Browns Happy 1966, But Not NFL Crown

Sometimes area hospitality goes way beyond the bounds of team loyalty.

The Cleveland Browns, who will be staying at the Holiday Inn this weekend, will find a letter of welcome and a box of stationery from Fox River Paper Corp. when they check into their rooms.

The letter from company president Dr. H. P. Dixon is a welcome to the "greatest paper producing area in the U.S., the Fox River Valley."

"We hope that you or some member of your family will find good use for this memento. We would also like to extend our best wishes for the new year (except when you are playing the Packers)."

Man Bruises Foot in Village Accident

LITTLE CHUTE — Marvin Evers, 39, 321 Johnson Ave., Little Chute, suffered a bruised foot, was treated by a physician and released after being struck by a car driven by James Brown, 19, 218 Maria St., Kaukauna, about 7 p.m. Wednesday.

According to police, Evers was lighting a cigarette and stepped into the intersection at Main Street and Grand Avenue without noticing the Brown vehicle traveling west on Main.

Struggle for Shotgun Ends in Waupaca Court

John Fritz Admits Reckless Conduct; $200 Fine or 45-Day Jail Term Ordered

WAUPACA — John W. Fritz, 29, route 2, was fined $200 Thursday by Municipal Justice George Whalen after Fritz pleaded guilty of a city police charge of reckless conduct in handling a firearm. Whalen ordered a 45-day jail term if the fine is not paid.

Fritz was arrested early Thursday after he took a shotgun from the trunk of his car and threatened another man with whom he had fought.

Two Feet of Snow In 1897 Winter In Fox Cities Area

The balmy, springlike weather Fox Cities residents have been experiencing the past several days brought back memories for Frank Groh, 83, 835 W. Third St.

Groh recalled that in 1897, two feet of snow fell in October and disappeared within several days. That was the extent of winter weather.

Farmers were plowing their fields in November and even January, Groh recalled. "People were walking the streets in their shirtsleeves many days throughout the winter months," he added.

"I remember a party we had Jan. 22," Groh noted, "and the people were all walking around people were all walking around outside."

Cigarette Machine Stolen at Drive-in

A cigarette vending machine stolen from in front of Dag's Drive-in, 1309 E. Wisconsin Ave., Wednesday night, was found empty Thursday in a field near Jardin and Owassa Streets.

The machine was found by an Appleton policeman shortly before it was reported missing. From $70 to $75 was missing from the machine, police were told.
